Christian—Moslem

Lebanon's harbor and littoral about Beirut, seen first from the air, is so beautiful as to be almost painful. The tiny country lies on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean. Mountains run down to the sea and the shore and the lines of the harbor—from an aircraft window—curve sinuously by the golden sands and the blue of the water.

For centuries it has been a gateway to the great fertile Crescent of the Moslem world. The armies and traders, scholars and merchants of many civilizations have come to it bringing conquest, slaughter, ideas, philosophies, religions.

Let us take the ruins of a World War II pillbox back of one of Beirut's beaches and run backward into time. There were the British, French, Turks, Crusaders (the toughest of them), Arabs, Romans, Greeks, Persians, Hittites, Assyrians, Phoenicians, Aramaeans, and Egyptians of the Pharaohs.

There are ruins left by many of these. The Lebanese are quite unlike other Arab nations. They are a synthesis of all that they have met, and features of it are an aggressive alertness, education, grace and cynicism. It has been said that to be a Lebanese is a profession, not a nationality. Its neighbors say that every citizen of the Lebanon has one hand in intrigue and the other in the counting house till.

Another Saying

There is another saying about Lebanon which is accurate, as we can plainly see with Nasserism and Nationalism at fever heat, reflecting, perhaps, some decisions made by Egypt's premier during his recent visit there.

Lebanon looks both East and West.

She is half Christian, half Moslem.

Her government traditionally has a Christian as president and a Moslem as premier.

Her education long has been Western. Many of the intellectuals of the Middle East have had their university degrees from one of the two universities at Beirut . . . one American, one French. Out of these have come men and women of many directions. There are schools of poetry and painting, sculpture and music. Beirut's annual music festival is famous.

There are wealth and poverty. It is, in every sense, the worst and best, "The Paris" of the East.

Its ruins are fascinating. One of its ancient cities, Byblos, gave its name to the Bible. It now is a fishing village, hard by the old ruins. The Pharaohs sent their cedar-laden ships out of Byblos. The cedars of Lebanon were cut and sent to build the first great temple at Jerusalem. The Phoenicians, too, used the port for their great flow of commerce. The Crusaders fortified the city. They were the tough fighters of the House of Embriaci, who held on longer than any others. When they departed, Islam ruled.

Days of Worship

On Fridays the muezzins call the faithful to prayer from the slender minarets of the mosques. On Sundays the solemn bells of Eastern Christian churches summon the faithful to penitence and devotion.

But none can escape the fact that despite the near equal division of Christian and Moslem, it is the latter which has the most force. Until recently, Lebanon was a center of calm in a sea of Islamic restlessness and violence. It could not last. Egypt did not wish it to be so.

Neighboring Syria, once it joined with Egypt, came to be the source of subversion and violence. The president of the republic, Camille Chamoun, has given his opponents and the Egyptians an opportunity. He is seeking to change the constitution so that he can hold on to power.

The Communists, of course, have swung their underground skills and their rioters behind the opposition. This they always do.

The United States has rushed arms there . . . in the light of our treaty. The odds are that for a time, at least, Lebanon will weather this surge of subversion by Egypt, the Communists and Syrians. But in the end it will be difficult to hold on unless President Chamoun is willing to give up some of his ambitions. The world has suffered much from ambitious men.

But insofar as the Lebanon is concerned, whatever happens will hardly match the history of her past. The West needs her and if she falls it will be a present disaster.

New Tax Case Said Settled by Cash Payment

By JACK NELSON
Constitution Staff Writer

DOUGLAS—A state sales tax official received $1,165.63 in cash to "settle" a $2,200 sales tax case, but refused to give a receipt for the money, a Douglas businessman charged Sunday.

O. T. Walker, owner of the Douglas Neon Sign Co., said he paid the money to J. B. McGregor, manager of the sales tax regional office at Douglas. The office covers 21 counties.

SECOND CASE

This is the second report since Friday of a cash "settlement" at the Douglas sales tax office. In neither case did the taxpayers receive receipts, according to affidavits given The Constitution.

The Atlanta Constitution has affidavits from Walker and from his brother, Harry Walker, who swore he was present when the payment was made.

Mrs. O. T. Walker said she accompanied her husband to the Douglas tax office last March 18, the date of the payment, and carried the money in her purse. She said she witnessed the entire transaction.

AFTER 5 P.M.

Harry Walker swore that McGregor told him not to bring the money to the tax office until after the 5 p.m. closing time.

McGregor commented that the Walker case "was handled in a normal manner." He said his office "operates under standard procedues and under the instructions of the Atlanta Sales Tax Field Office."

The tax official claimed "there was nothing irregular about the handling of this case" and added, "I have never acted without authority from the Atlanta office in any sales tax matter."

McGregor said "receipts have been given in all sales tax cases and all money collected by the Douglas office has been turned in to the tax office in Atlanta."

He said he could not answer specific allegations in the affidavits "without access to the file, which is in Atlanta."

WRITTEN PERMISSION

McGregor said that any further comment "will have to come from the Atlanta sales tax field office."

The Constitution has written permission from O. T. Waller to examine his sales tax records.

Walker swore that after he made the payment, McGregor told him "he was going to tear up my sales tax records and assign me a new sales tax number."

The Constitution reported last week that a Jesup grocer said he

Chalker Calls City Contracts Suit a Stunt

WAYNESBORO (AP) — Georgia Highway Board Chairman Roy F. Chalker Sunday night dismissed as "a publicity stunt" an Atlanta attorney's $525,000 suit against bonding companies of him and four other present and past board members.

The attorney, Alex McLennan, charges the state officials with "open and flagrant violation" in awarding of so-called "city contracts" for road work, and says that all highway funds spent in the last three years under these contracts were illegal expenditures.

"The practices of the Highway Board are sound and are the same exactly as have been used since 1949," Chalker said.

'We Want Beer!' Students Chant; 25 Arrested During 5-Hour Riot

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Twenty-five University of Florida men students were arrested early Sunday during a five-hour riot which followed a crackdown on sale of beer to minors.

Chanting, "We want beer," over 1,000 men and women students staged a demonstration which was not suppressed until just before 3 a.m., when a campus policeman was severely cut by a soft drink bottle thrown from the mob.

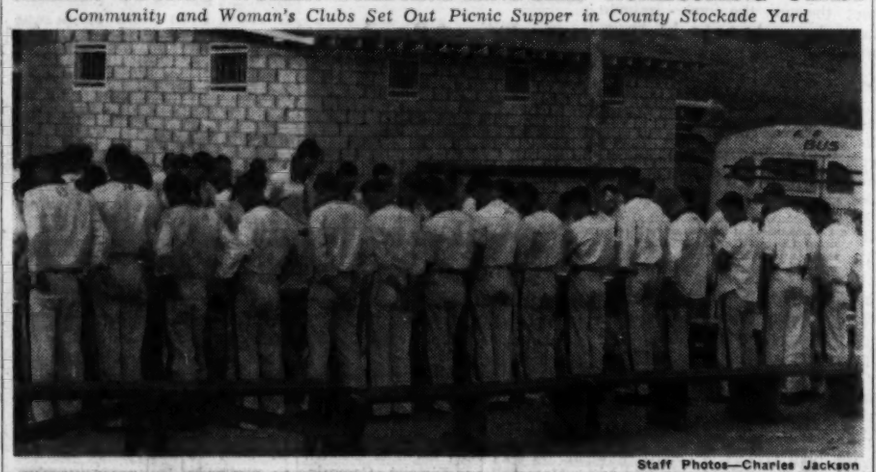

The officer, Buddy Williams, 21, was in good condition Sunday.

Three of the students were charged with aggravated assault. No bond was set immediately. The others, charged with disorderly conduct, were released under $500 bonds. Nearly all are under 21.

A similar "we want beer" riot involving 600 students was staged last Wednesday but only one arrest was made then.

Nose Cone Back from Space Shot

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army Sunday fired a full-range Jupiter ballistic missile into space and recovered its nose cone in a major military breakthrough.

The rounded nose cone plunged from space through the earth's atmosphere at a speed estimated at more than 9,000 miles an hour but did not burn.

A Defense Department spokesman said preliminary examinations indicated "complete success" of the re-entry, a major problem in use of ballistic missiles. It was the first such successful re-entry of a full - scale nose cone.

The Army got off its full-scale shot at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., testing center at 12:06 a.m. E.S.T. Navy ships standing by in the South Atlantic recovered the nose cone at 4:45 a.m. E.S.T.

The Defense Department declined for security reasons to say where the missile landed but a spokesman pointed out that the normal range of an IRBM is at least 1,500 miles.

The nose cone was rigged with a variety of devices to aid in its recovery.

Picnic Supper Greets 65 Convicts in Gilmer

Constitution State News Service

ELLIJAY—Gilmer County gave a "welcome home" party—and the guests of honor were 65 convicts.

The county public works camp, which closed two weeks ago when the State Board of Corrections removed the convicts as a result of charges that their labor had been used on private property, reopened with a prayer and a mountain-style flourish Saturday night.

Four community improvement clubs, Boardtown, Northcut Town Creek and Oakland, the Ellijay Woman's Club and the merchants in the county pitched in to throw a picnic supper for the returning convicts in the prison yard.

"This convict camp has been like a community lawn mower," an Ellijay citizen said. "It's been used and enjoyed by 'most everybody, including 46 churches. We're mighty glad the boys are back!"

"In the future if you want the boys to put a little rock on your driveway or the road to your church or cemetery, you know the rule: Deed it to the county!" said County Commissioner B. C. Logan Sr., smiling broadly as he walked around among citizen hosts and the convict guests at the party.

Gilmer County women launched the "welcome home" celebration Friday when they learned that Commissioner Logan had been notified by the Board of Corrections to have supper ready Saturday night for the returning convicts. Since the camp cooks have always been prisoners, Commissioner Logan was said to be hard-pressed as to how to have

Officer Shot At East Point, Gunman Hit

By JAMES SHEPPARD

An East Point policeman was critically wounded Sunday in a burst from a shotgun and fellow officers cut down his assailant with pistol fire.

East Point Police Chief W. H. Tyler said officer T. Z. Williams was wounded at close range by a shotgun wielded by John Thomas, a Negro, as Williams answered a call to the apartment house where Thomas lived.

A dozen policemen then surrounded the building and fired into the second-story apartment where Thomas had taken refuge behind locked doors.

"When I got to the scene," Chief Tyler said, "officer Williams was lying at the bottom of the staircase, and Thomas was

Riots Rage In Tripoli; 60 Killed

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Furious fighting raged Sunday in Tripoli, north Lebanese port city where rioters burned a U.S. library nine days ago. At least 60 persons were reported killed.

It was the bloodiest scrap of the internal warfare that has been shaking this tiny east Mediterranean republic. Supporters and foes of pro-Western President Camille Chamoun have engaged in daily clashes. Chamoun has blamed interference from the United Arab Republic and U.A.R. President Nasser for the troubles.

The new fighting began Saturday.

SHOOTING HALTS

Security forces stormed through the narrow streets late in the day in a bid to regain control, and managed to get the shooting halted.

Telephoned reports from Tripoli said Rachid Karami, a top-ranking opposition leader in the north, ordered his forces to quit fighting when their casualties began to mount.

The security forces have controlled Tripoli's new city throughout the strife. They were reported ready to move into the old town to extend their control.

There were unconfirmed reports that Karami and Mohammed Hamze, another opposition leader in the north, had been captured. Opposition sources in Beirut later said it might be true.

The capture would be a major victory for Chamoun. It might even weaken the opposition to a point where they would be forced to end the battling in which an estimated 150 to 200 persons have been reported killed in pitched battles, bomb throwing, sniping and rioting.

No official casualty figures were available.

Beirut and most other cities were quiet Sunday. Disturbances were reported in Sidon, south Lebanon, and there were reports of fighting in the mountainous Chouf district in central Lebanon.

Reds Accuse U.S. Of Stirring New Plot in Lebanon

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government accused the United States Sunday night of hatching a new "plot" in the Mideast by interfering in internal affairs of Lebanon.

The official news agency Tass distributed a long statement warning that "certain Western embassies" in Lebanon were conspiring in new "pressure" on the Arab nations and that the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean had received "urgent orders" to support the political maneuvers.

The Western activities, Moscow said, would lead to "serious consequences" for Lebanon and the Mideast.

Plane Hits Building, Killing 65

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—A Belgian airliner coming in for an emergency landing with a bad engine smashed through a building at Casablanca's Cazes Airport Sunday and exploded in a tower of flame. Sixty-five persons, including at least eight children, were killed.

Four passengers escaped by plunging through a hatchway seconds before the Sabena Airlines four-engine DC6B blew up.

MOST BELGIANS

Forty-one of the dead passengers were Belgians, most of them returning to the Belgian Congo after vacations in their homeland and visits to the World's Fair in Brussels. The others were seven Britons, five Portuguese, one Dutch, one German and one Swiss. A British family of five and a Belgian family of five perished together.

The plane took off from Brussels with 54 passengers and nine Belgian crewmen. Six more passengers boarded the craft at Lisbon. The plane was bound for Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo. Sabena's manifest listed no Americans aboard.

ENGINE FAILS

After leaving Lisbon the pilot radioed that one of his engines was vibrating and that he was stopping at Casablanca for repairs. He jettisoned some of his gasoline just before reaching Casablanca. With firemen and ambulances waiting along the runway, the plane nosed down. But its approach was bad. Eyewitnesses said the pilot gunned the engines to pull up but the plane did not respond.

The airliner missed the runway, plowed through a military installations building, hurtled 50 yards and came to a stop against another airport structure.

Immediately the passenger door burst open and four passengers leaped out. Then the plane exploded.

Riot Threat In De Gaulle Visit Heeded

By ROBERT C. DOTY
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

PARIS—The French government Sunday called up new gendarmerie reserves, banned all public assemblies in Paris and began indirect press censorship, bracing for a Gaullist offensive Monday.

These measures were ordered by the cabinet of Premier Pierre Pflimlin on the eve of a press conference by Gen. Charles de Gaulle Monday. The 67-year-old former provisional president was scheduled then to define the conditions under which he would be willing to "assume the powers of the republic."

The Communist-dominated General Workers Confederation (CGT) called upon all factory workers in the Seine (Paris) department to stop work at 3 p.m. — the hour of De Gaulle's press conference — to remain in their factories and stand ready to take further action in the event of any right wing attempt at a coup d'etat. The duration of the work stoppage was left to the individual factory committees and the order did not constitute a general strike call.

The Communists have sought to exploit the resurgence of Gaullism to re-create a "popular front" with the socialists and other left-wing groups against the alleged "facist menace." Other leftists have turned a deaf ear to their appeals at the national level but at the grass roots the Communists have had some success. Sunday at Evreux in the Eure department — home department of former radical Premier Pierre Mendes-France — local Communists, Socialists and radicals with labor unions of all tendencies joined in a "departmental committee of republican defense."

De Gualle, on Thursday, struck a hard blow at the shaky parliamentary regime by a short announcement of "availability." His statement was dropped into the critical situation created two days earlier by a movement of disidence by army and civilian leaders in Algeria. The generals and European civilians of Algeria acted in fear that the Pflimlin cabinet would take steps toward a negotiated peace with the Moslem

KILLED IN WRECK
Rebecca Brown

A 4-year-old Scottdale girl was killed Sunday afternoon when she was thrown from the rear of a pickup truck which overturned as her mother was taking her five children home after church services.

The little girl, Rebecca Brown, was pronounced dead on the way to a hospital.

The mother, Mrs. Elsie Geneva Brown, 29, of 18 Milton St., Scottdale, was taking the children home from services at the Stone Mountain Assembly of God.

She told DeKalb County officers F. J. Harris and C. W. Potts the right front tire blew out and the truck struck a utility pole and overturned. The mother and the children — Rebecca; Kathy, 3; Regina, 6; Stephen, 8, and Velda, 11, all on the floor in the back—were hurled into the street.

When police and ambulances arrived, the mother and five youngsters were lying screaming near McCurdy road and East Ponce de Leon avenue. The father, A. C. Brown, is a part-time worker at a service station.

Mrs. Brown and Stephen were reported in "fair" condition at

Griffin Is Mounting New Counterattack

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

The Griffin administration, which has taken a tremendous political and prestige beating for months, now appears to be trying to mount a counteroffensive to fend off the blows.

The pattern of such a strategy seems to be emerging from the recent actions and statements of administration officials and spokesmen from Gov. Griffin down.

William M. Bates

Instead of concentrating its efforts on investigating and acting to clear up charges of irregularities and laxity, the administration seems to be trying to minimize and discount the mounting array of charges as politically inspired attacks.

This attitude has now been coupled with vigorous efforts to strike back at administration critics — principally the Atlanta papers. The ban on liquor advertising in Atlanta and Macon newspapers clearly falls into the emerging pattern. There may be other offensive moves; there are hints of a possible crackdown by state alcohol agents on mixed-

Little Rock Barred In Governors' Talks

Dispute Not Proper Subject For Action, Chairman Says

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois ruled out the Little Rock school case Sunday as a proper subject for action by the 50th annual Governors' conference.

Stratton, chairman of the conference, in effect invited fellow governors to forget their arguments over the explosive Arkansas dispute during their four-day session here.

He spoke out at a news conference which coincided with the preliminary formalities preceeding the business sessions which run from Monday through Wednesday. The program for those sessions includes the business recession, national defense and relations between state and federal governments.

SPECIAL SESSIONS

On the basis of economic trends, Stratton also suggested that the governors must face up in the next month or so to the question of whether to call special sessions of their legislatures to provide more liberal unemployment insurance benefits. He advocated repeal of federal excise taxes on automobiles, transportation and other unnamed items but declared himself against a general tax cut, including income tax relief, so long as it would inflate the prospective federal deficit.

Stratton was asked how the Little Rock school case, which kept federal troops and federalized National Guardsmen stationed at Central High School through the 1957-58 school year, would figure in the discussion of federal-state relations.

WON'T DISCUSS IT

"That's definitely not the province of the governors as a whole," he said. "We're not going to get into that."

He said he would not comment one way or the other about whether President Eisenhower was wise to send federal troops to Little Rock after Gov. Orval Faubus used National Guardsmen to prevent the entry of Negro pupils.

Questioned about tax reduction, Stratton said federal taxes were "much, much too high." But he said it would be "the height of folly" to have a general tax cut which might cost five billion dollars if the treasury was going to be in the red by 10 millions next year.

Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania told another news conference that the economic picture was "not very bright" in his state. He cited moves to step up public works spending in Pennsylvania. But he said he did not see how there could be a federal tax cut in the light of needs for defense, jobs for the unemployed, schools, hospitals and highways.

Hospital Eases Out Patient Townsend During Princess' Tour, London Told

Margaret in New Hat

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation newspaper The People said Sunday a man named Townsend was discharged from a hospital last week—because Princess Margaret was paying a visit and his name might have embarrassed her.

The story was splashed across the front page under the headline "Royalty: Blunders That Will Make Them Blush."

The paper gave this account:

Electric Worker Frederick Townsend was in hospital at Lewisham, South London, having an injured foot treated. Hospital officials thought of the princess' broken romance with another Townsend—Group Capt. Peter Townsend—and decided to save her from what they thought would be an awkward moment as she moved down the line of patients.

So last Wednesday, the day before the princess' visit, Frederick Townsend was told: "You will be able to leave before Princess Margaret arrives. It would be most embarrassing if she were to ask your name."

The princess toured the hospital as scheduled and then went home to Marlborough House—and had tea with Peter Townsend.

Elmer Davis Dies at 68; Newscaster, OWI Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elmer Davis, one of the nation's best-known radio commentators and former government official, died Sunday at the George Washington University Hospital. He was 68.

He died at 3:15 p.m. E.S.T. after a lingering illness.

Elmer Davis believed that "a free people has a right to know . . ."

In a variety of careers, all devoted in one way or another to the dissemination of information, he did what he could to preserve this right.

As director of the Office of War Information (OWI) in World War II he worked for the release of every scrap of news, good or bad, which would not give aid and comfort to the enemy.

Millions of Americans first became aware of Davis' passion for fact through the five - minute news broadcasts he began making before World War II.

CHAMPIONS LIBERTY

Davis championed civil liberties as strongly as he did the "right to know." At the height of the controversy over the Communist-hunting methods of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), he wrote the books "But We Were Born Free" and "Five Minutes To Midnight."

Davis was born Jan. 13, 1890, in Aurora, Ind. He was the son of the town banker. He early manifested capacity to absorb information. At Franklin College he received a bachelor's and a master's degree and then taught school for a year in his home state.

His high grades in college won him a Rhodes scholarship and he studied at Queen's College, Oxford, England. On his return, he embarked on a writing career.

RADIO FOLLOWING

Davis got into news broadcasting in 1939 by filling in for H. V. Kaltenborn on the Columbia Broadcasting System. He quickly won a following of his own.

In 1942 President Roosevelt appointed Davis supervisor of U. S. information activities. He directed the work of 30,000 persons who previously had been employed in four separate agencies.

Davis worked for American Broadcasting Co. after the war until a heart attack in 1953 sharply curtailed his activities. On St. Patrick's Day, 1958, he suffered a stroke.

Surviving with his widow, the former Florence MacMillan, are his son, Robert Lloyd Davis, a member of the University of Virginia faculty, and his daughter, Caroline Ann, Chicago.

2 Knifed In Mass. Race Clash

REVERE, Mass. (AP) — Three Negroes were held Sunday on charges of assault with intent to murder two white brothers Saturday night during a wild battle on a thronged boulevard in this seaside city.

It was the second time within two weeks that whites and Negroes have clashed on a Saturday night in metropolitan Boston. Revere is six miles north of Boston.

Metropolitan District Commission police Sgt. Eugene Janusz said the Negroes were captured after police fired two shots as they attempted to flee from a concession area where their alleged victims lay writhing in pain from stab wounds.

Janusz said that after 11 hours of questioning each youth refused to give any information other than his name, address, age and occupation. He identified them as Harry Green and Thomas Shelton, both 21, and Otis Joyner, 23.

The sergeant said each was a former resident of Saint Matthews, S. C., and were employed as stableboys at Suffolk Downs race track in East Boston.

Police said a fight erupted when the brothers, Roger Salvage, 22, and James, 18, a soldier, of Stoneham, objected to the Negroes allegedly jostling a group of white girls.

Two weeks ago in Boston 15 persons were assaulted by roving gangs after a rock 'n' roll show.

Research, Sales Drives Attack Dip

Corporations Rely Less on Layoffs

By A. H. RASKIN
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Heads of major corporations reported Sunday that they were putting more money into promotion and research this year, despite doubts about how well sales and profits would measure up.

A clue to industry's thinking on self-help programs to combat the recession was given by the heads of companies with nearly 5,000,000 workers in a survey made by the American Management Association.

The results were made public on the eve of the opening Monday morning of a two-day economic mobilization conference called by the association to give business leaders a chance to exchange views on restoring prosperity.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK

President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Secretary of Commerce Weeks will participate in the sessions at the Astor Hotel. The President will deliver a major policy address at night. Twenty-six hundred industry representatives are expected to attend.

The survey disclosed a sharp disagreement in executive ranks on prospects for increased sales this year. Of the 688 companies responding to the association's questionnaire, 242 thought sales would go up, 119 thought they would stay level with 1957 totals, 324 thought they would go down and three declined to make a forecast.

In general, big companies were inclined to be more pessimistic about the sales outlook than smaller ones. Even more gloom was reflected on profit prospects than on sales. Reduced profits were predicted by 392 companies, against 185 expecting higher earnings and 107 foreseeing no change.

HASN'T FELT IT

The head of one Southwestern enterprise said his company had 'not yet felt the effects of a recession." The president of a fuel supplier classified his business as "depression-proof."

A contrasting comment from a textile manufacturer was: "A fair comparison of what our industry is up against would be for a Sunday golfer to play golf every day against Ben Hogan without a handicap."

The company officials made it plain they were not relying solely on such belt-tightening devices as cost-reduction programs, layoffs and shorter work schedules to grapple with the business slump. Many reported stepping up their research and development activities, increasing advertising and sales efforts and improving quality and customer service.

CAMPAIGN PAYS OFF

One company said it had disregarded "the advice of almost everyone" in January by investing $78,000 in a direct sales campaign. The result, the company said, was "the largest first three months in the history of our business."

Fifteen company presidents offered formulas for getting their staffs to "work harder and smarter." Only three mentioned cutting prices or holding the price line in the face of increasing costs.

Capital expansion plans tended to vary with the degree of confidence each company had in its profit prospects.

Peiping Prepares To Launch a Satellite In Near Future Using Soviet Methods

By MAX FRANKEL
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW—Communist China is preparing to try to launch its own artificial satellites in the "near future," the Soviet press reported Sunday.

The Chinese were said to be "seriously studying" Soviet techniques in sending man-made moons into orbit so as to qualify as the world's third satellite power.

Success of the Chinese in this field, even with Soviet assistance, would undoubtedly be heralded here and in Peiping as evidence of China's big-power status and of its achievements under communism. The U.S. has not formally recognized China's Communist government and has led Western moves to keep China out of the United Nations.

News of the Chinese interest in the Soviet Sputniks was reported by the official Soviet news agency Tass from Peiping and repeated by Pravda in a front page editorial Sunday morning.

The accounts quoted Kuo Mo-Jo, president of the academy of sciences, as praising the launching of the third Soviet Sputnik last Thursday. Pravda then stressed that the Chinese scientists are seriously studying the advanced science and technology of the Soviet Union "so that China in the near future can launch its own earth satellites."

Nothing else was said here about the Chinese plans. The single sentence was buried among Soviet tributes to Soviet scientific achievements and deprecatory comments about the United States satellite program to date.

Proclaiming the "outstanding victory" of Soviet scientists over their American counterparts, Pravda said that only "heavyweight" and not "small size" sputniks would help mankind solve the problems of interplanetary travel.

The three Soviet satellites have weighed 184, 1,120 and 2,926 pounds respectively compared to U.S. satellite weights of 3.25, 30.8 and 31 pounds. These differences are being emphasized in dozens of different ways by the Soviet press as it attempts to demonstrate that the U.S. is not even playing in the same sputnik league.

For instance, Sovatskaya Rossiya openly scoffed at U.S. efforts to prepare men on the ground for the conditions of eventual space travel. It reported derisively Sunday that American scientists had managed to supply a live lieutenant with cold chocolate drinks while he was inside a hermetically sealed space cabin.

"But their Sputniks as yet are only the size of an orange," the paper wrote "and in the whole American army they have not yet found a lieutenant whose size would enable him to fit into an orange."

Fiscal Rein Asked for Assembly

Senator Attacks Griffin Regime

A return of budget control to the state Legislature would do away with "such hatchetmen as Cheney Griffin," state Sen. Fred Bentley said Sunday.

R. A. (Cheney) Griffin is a brother of Gov. Marvin Griffin and has handled patronage for the administration.

Sen. Bentley, of Cobb County, appeared on Press Gallery, sponsored this week by The Atlanta Journal. With Bentley on the WSB-TV panel were Mrs. Dan Byrd Jr., member of the Atlanta Voters' Guild, and Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, state president of the League of Women Voters.

Bentley said that a taxpayer's suit seeking damages from bonding companies of state employes for alleged irregularities was "locking the barn door after the horse is gone," but will have value in letting the public know the details of any irregularities.

"Everything should be done that can be done to return taxpayers' money to where it belongs," Bentley said. "It is the duty and responsibility of the state government to see that this sort of suit is not necessary."

Mrs. Byrd called for simplification in government so that the average citizen could know what is going on. She said the average citizen felt helpless to right political wrongs because of the complicated methods of government now in use.

Mrs. Vinson said a step in righting wrongdoings in government would be for more people to take an active part in politics on the local level. She advocated public meetings explaining the intricacies of politics.

Bentley said it is the people who make the platforms politicians run on. He said the voter should demand certain qualifications in those running for office and should also demand that office seekers reveal their positions on controversial issues.

"The platform I want to see is one which would include complete reconstruction of all governmental departments, reducing the number to 30 or 40," Bentley said. "I would also like to see return of some control over the governor's office to the legislature. And of course the platform should contain a general theme of no more corruption."

Questioning the panel were Luke Greene, Journal associate editor, and Pat Watters, Journal staff writer. Moderator was Jack Spalding, Journal editor.

Rising Costs May Boost Primary Fee

The Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee will meet at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, facing the vexing problems of setting entrance fees and entry deadlines for candidates for 13 county offices in the Sept. 10 primary.

Neill Leach, committee secretary, said Sunday the committee must set entrance fees in the relatively few offices and raise sufficient money to finance the primary.

He also said the committee must fix entrance deadlines so as to avoid lengthy campaigning.

Regarding fees, Leach indicated they may have to be increased for most of the offices in order to meet election costs.

For example, fees for the three Superior Court judgeships at stake—which were set at $2,500 in 1956—may be boosted even more because the terms are for eight years.

Following are the other offices to be filled and the amount of fees paid by candidates who sought the offices the last time they were open:

County commissioner (3 positions), $900 each; criminal court judges (2 positions), and criminal court solicitor, $1,500 each, and state legislators (4 positions), $300 each.

Leach explained that the committee, in establishing entrance deadlines, must determine whether to follow the lead of a state committee which recommended closing entries on June 21 or whether to follow the custom of leaving entries open for 30 days and closing them within 60 days of the primary date.

Leach pointed out that candidates want the deadlines closed with only 60 days left until election time because it leaves less time for expensive campaigning. The June 21 deadline recommendation is due to be acted on next Friday by the state committee.

Highway Dept. Gets Citizen's Challenge

The suit brought by Atlanta attorney Alex McLennan against surety companies holding bonds for the state on members of the State Highway Board places the issue of road building irregularities squarely where it belongs—in the courts. He has performed a public service in putting it there.

Acting as a private citizen and for the governor on behalf of the state and its taxpayers, Mr. McLennan filed his suit in Fulton Superior Court asking that the surety companies be held liable under bonds executed on present members of the board and on two former board chairmen.

The suit charges that highway funds have been spent illegally and demands restitution to the full extent of the bonds.

Mr. McLennan makes detailed charges that funds were spent illegally on scores of municipal projects throughout the state and that many such contracts still are outstanding.

Citing sections of the Georgia Code which prohibit the State Highway Department from negotiating contracts with any person, firm or corporation, excepting contracts with counties, Mr. McLennan charges that city improvements such as sidewalks, widening streets and gutters and paving streets have been done in various municipalities with state funds.

He also cites the Georgia Code as prohibiting the letting of contracts except by public bid and prohibiting counties from doing work on negotiated contracts with the State Highway Department except with convict labor or county forces.

Not only have these provisions been violated, Mr. McLennan charges, but no plans or specifications have been placed on file with the State Highway Department, nor have any plans or specifications ever been prepared by the State Highway Department, nor by the municipalities involved on many projects. Some of the contracts, he declares, did not even name the streets.

He charges also that the cities cited transferred contracts through privately negotiated contracts with no advertising for bids, no bidding, no bonds for faithful execution and that many contracts have been verbal with no records kept by the cities.

The Georgia Code has not been followed either, the attorney states, in apportioning funds for "post roads" among counties. On the contrary, he says, the money was spent with a "selected" group of municipalities and hundreds of towns and cities in Georgia have not shared in expenditure of these funds.

He says, too, that designation of streets as "post roads was a complete fraud."

Without commenting on the legal merits of Mr. McLennan's case—since it is now a matter for the courts—Georgia taxpayers will be tremendously interested in the outcome of this suit. It should clear the air and serve notice on politicians that any citizen has a right to challenge what he considers illegal spending of his tax funds.

Decent Youths Advocate Curb Upon Delinquency

Miss Billie Faye Scarborough of LaGrange High School deserves the plaudits of all Georgians for winning first place in the state peace officers association's essay contest on "The Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency."

So do Carol Greer of Fort Valley and Pat Haralson of Monroe, second and third place winners respectively, and the 29 who received honorary awards.

The vast majority of teen-agers are fine young citizens and they resent the stigma often placed upon the younger generation as a whole because of the criminal acts of the minority.

However, there is no denying that juvenile delinquency is on the rise. In view of that fact it is important that well-behaved youngsters such as those who won laurels in the peace officers' contest are becoming increasingly aware of the necessity for concrete action to reverse the trend.

Taking Away Car Keys Will Slow the Dragsters

Judge O. J. Franklin of the Eastman City Court evidently takes a dim view of drag racing.

State Trooper Joe Alday carried three Dodge countians into Judge Franklin's court last week and charged them with drag racing. Each of the trio was under 17.

The state patrolman said he caught two of the youngsters racing side by side at from 80 to 90 miles an hour and the third running close up behind. In one of the racing cars, there were young girl passengers.

The Eastman judge took newly acquired and highly coveted driver's licenses away from the boys for a year and ordered the permits restored only on probation.

All sober thinking citizens will applaud the judge's verdict. We trust the parents of the three young men will see to it that their sons do not drive during next 12 months.

In presenting the case, Patrolman Alday said the arrest followed many complaints of drag racing in Dodge County.

Those complaints come in from many other counties, as the youngsters choose county roads to scratch off and show off.

Stern punishment from the courts, active cooperation from parents will help put a stop to drag racing.

Nothing could be more effective than putting the car keys out of junior's reach when he insists on abusing the right to use them.

State Also Should Ask For Bids on Insurance

Fulton County commissioners have decided to call for public bidding on more than a half-million dollars' worth of insurance for voting machines.

Much more important, they are considering putting all county insurance up for bids. That indeed would be an excellent move and one which Georgia taxpayers can only hope will not go unnoticed by the future leadership at the State Capitol.

Over there, insurance on state property is a political plum to be split up among the governor's cronies and supporters who already are in the insurance business or who somehow or other obtain a license in order to share in the windfall. On occasions the license or lack of it seems to make little difference anyway.

There's no telling how much money the state could have saved over a period of years if its insurance had been handled on a bid basis instead of as a political reward.

"To the victor belongs the spoils" has been the attitude in the upper echelon of Georgia government in insurance and other matters. The current administration has outdone the others in looking after its friends at the taxpayers' expense.

Fulton County is on the right track in seeking bids on insurance. Perhaps in the years ahead the wisdom of following sound business practices instead of pursuing a course of political expediency will rub off on the powers-that-be at the State Capitol even if there is little likelihood it will on the present team.

Merchandise Mart Is A Show of Confidence

One of the most significant business developments in many a day for all Georgia as well as the Atlanta area is the announcement that a 15-million-dollar merchandise mart will be built in Gwinnett County, just outside Atlanta.

The 11-story showroom building will have a massive adjoining convention coliseum. Under present plans, construction will start in October and the structure is scheduled to be completed by 1960.

According to our information, the mart will be one of the finest in the country, equal in size to the combined space of Madison Square Garden and the San Francisco Cow Palace. There will be parking space for 10,000 cars.

It will be of tremendous value in the development of Georgia business and industry and should have a great effect on the whole Southeast. Those who have pushed the idea to its present stage deserve much credit for their imagination, foresight and enterprise.

Certainly the announcement shows faith and confidence that the growing Southeast has no intention of slowing down the momentum of its tremendous development.

War on Pole Posters Declared in Marietta

The city government in Marietta has posted notice it wants no more notices posted on the poles around town.

Residents of the Cobb County seat and all others interested in neatness will applaud that position.

Utility poles were never intended as the background for posters. Areas where posters are permitted should be regulated by requiring a cash bond with every poster, the money to be returned when the advertising is taken down.

A weather-beaten sign advertising a circus or a carnival or a political rally or a candidacy or a revival still up long after the event also advertises laxity or carelessness. An outdated sign does not speak well for the concern advertising nor for the community.

Inconsiderate Slow Drivers and 'Leftists' On Expressways Criticized by Mariettan

Marietta — Squawking about traffic, and who isn't, why can't something be done about people who drive leisurely and inconsiderately along in the left lane of the highways? There seems to be something irresistible about that side. Here we come down the four-lane, hoping to beat the hoss-and-buggy speed, and we have either to poke along at the leftist's rate or, in the event he decides to weave back over where he belongs, get clipped as we pass on the right side. In which case we legally wouldn't have a prayer.

If the vigilantes were as attentive to this little matter as they are to the red meter, to which my wagon seems to be hitched now and again, there would be more pleasant and sane driving and fewer letters like this.

He Does Not Order Bodenhamer To Run

Athens—Rep. William T. Bodenhamer wants the "good people of Georgia" to order him to run for governor. He seems to think the people urging him to run do not want to let the "big Atlanta newspapers win by default," since they are opposing the county unit system so they can establish big-city bossism by a few.

Either Mr. Bodenhamer does not give the "good people of Georgia" credit for having much intelligence or he is a little short in understanding himself. I consider such statements an insult to the people of Georgia.

I am opposed to the county unit system because I do not like to see the vote of one person outweighed by that of another. The county unit system breeds selfish politicians who realize they can ignore the majority of the population of the state and still win an election. Such politicians attempt to create strife between rural and urban areas.

Elimination of the county unit system would not establish bossism by a few. Rather, it would restore the government to the people. No, Mr. Bodenhamer, I do not order you to run.

J. F. McCLAIN JR.

Editor's Note: As for the county unit system, we know of no candidate for governor who is not equally as strong for it as is the Rev. Mr. Bodenhamer. So whoever might be elected, we see no connection with that and this newspaper's stand on the governor's race.

Miss Sibley Saluted For Mystery Work

Atlanta—All during my reading of "The Malignant Heart," by Celestine Sibley, I was experiencing dual emotions. In addition to skin-crawling reactions as the plot thickened I felt one nostalgic thrill after another as the characters moved among familiar Atlanta and Georgia landmarks. A native is as much at home in this book as she ever was in "Gone With the Wind!"

My appreciation for this ingrained Georgia daughter as an author must surely be shared by many native Atlantans. Congratulations, Celestine.

Eighth Graders Tell Of School Activities

Atlanta — This letter's concerned with the article about the homemaking and citizenship departments in the Atlanta schools.

We should like to bring to your attention the fact that not all schools in Atlanta are weak in these subjects, so it is hardly fair to criticize all schools.

Our school, North Fulton, is an example. In our homemaking department we don't prepare such things as tomato sandwiches. Moreover, we ar- learning to prepare a healthful, nutritious and tasty breakfast which we feel will be most helpful in the future.

Another subject criticized was community citizenship. In our school we read and discuss the way our government is run. We also take a daily quiz on this material that will help us in our future studies because we are improving our writing, spelling and study habits in addition to acquiring knowledge.

In conclusion, we think it is wrong to criticize these subjects on the basis of so little information.

Supreme Court Will Uphold The Law, Come What May

The nation observed "Law Day" recently, recognizing the effect of our law on our lives and law as the basic rule of our government and, indeed, our civilization. While paying homage to the rule of law, some of our lawmakers and many interested citizens continued to push plans to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in two or three precedent shattering items of legislation. Apparently they saw no inconsistency in their attitude.

Today's constitutional debate, spurred by men known not as conservatives but as "constitutional radicals," concerns the high court's role as one of the three great branches of our government. Opponents of the court maintain it has meddled in legislative affairs. While there is some justification for that attitude, we must remember that the Supreme Court's duty is to interpret the Constitution and to see that it performs its obligation of protecting the rights of individuals above all other rights.

Unpopular Supreme Court decisions are nothing new. But stacking the court, as President Roosevelt tried to do, or writing laws around it, as the "radicals" would choose to do now, endangers the court.

The law is a continuing rule and is the instrument that protects not only our persons but our system of government and way of life over the long haul. Attempts to alter the rule of law to fit circumstances for this week and this hour may be expected. The test of the value of the law and the guide of its meaning to us is that it withstands short-run onslaughts. If we altered the law with each passing passion, we would have no law and no order. Neither would we have protection from anarchy.

There is little enough in life as it is that can withstand sudden whim. Though God is eternal, even religion is subjected to the buffeting of extemporaneous interpretation. Sudden anger or sudden revelation, call it what you will, turns into splinter ideologies and new congregations.

In the law, however, we have Western civilization's basic reference points. From its beginning in early momotheism to Runnymede and the Constitutional Congress it has been built upon and expanded.

Trying to short-circuit the establishment of the law by building fences around sections of the Supreme Court's authority is as dangerous as packing the court with pre-disposed judges. We don't think it can be done.

Liberal Humphrey Is on Inside Track

WASHINGTON—In the House of the Democratic liberals are many mansions of issues. And several of these are occupied, all at once, by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. Humphrey is one of the restrained presidential aspirants—restrained in that he is not openly seeking the honor. Nothing else about his public career, however, is the least bit quiet.

In this uncharacteristic tactic of the soft presidential pursuit, he is simply following the traditional line of the professional politicians.

And Humphrey, an ex-political science teacher and the hero of great numbers of eggheads, is also very much a pro. His home base is what the textbooks would call one of an agrarian liberalism to radicalism. Putting it another way, his state in the past has been dominated by farmers likely to get unusually angry in hard or unsettled times and to express this anger with odd political demands.

This situation now, however, probably is more a memory than a fact. Minneapolis and St. Paul are hardly pastoral. And much of Humphrey's support has come from organized labor as well as organized farmers.

At any rate, given his background and circumstances, Humphrey ordinarily would be famous in Congress, if at all, as a Democratic counterpart to what old Sen. George Moses, an acid Yankee, used to call the Republican sons of the wild jackass.

That is, Humphrey would normally have been a perpetually howling farm-reliever or nothing much at all.

With him it has not worked out that way. He is essentially a city politician. This correspondent's guess is that his heart is far more in foreign policy than in farm policy.

And though he certainly has not been slow in pressing for higher farm subsidies, he has not made this a career. Rather, he has sought to make a career out of other issues—foreign affairs, civil rights, disarmament and so on.

Such a personal procedure inescapably implies that a man has an adequate regard for himself over a pretty broad area of national and world problems.

Humphrey has not escaped these implications in the minds of many of his colleagues. Some look upon him as an energetically noisy one-man band. This attitude exists even though he understands, as many advanced liberals do not, that the American political process at bottom is and must be one of compromise.

A probable political drawback, too, is his position as a vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action.

The harm in this association likely is somewhat offset by the fact that he has stayed with the ADA in its bad hours as well as in it good ones.

His pluses, moreover, are not inconsiderable. He is exceptionally able—probably as able an all-around man as there is in the Senate, though unwisely scattered in his many exertions and a bit too facile. And on world affairs he is highly responsible, never meanly partisan. He is, finally, the Democratic leader in the field of disarmament—as the unsinkable Harold Stassen, an ex-Minnesotan, is attempting to be for the Republicans.

Reason and Love Seen as Winners

One of the finest sermons I have yet seen on the race issue was preached by Mr. W. B. Selah, the wise and good pastor of the great Galloway Memorial Methodist Church in Jackson, Miss. He named four cardinal principles which should guide us through the difficulties and controversies of the race question.

The subject of his sermon was "The Climate of Freedom" and his text was Galatians 5:13—"Ye have been called unto liberty, but use not your liberty as an occasion to the flesh; but in love serve one another." His six points were:

(1) We must grant to our opponents the same freedom we demand for ourselves. A man honestly trying to follow Christ as Lord must be welcome in the church and his right to dissent from the prevailing opinion in the church, or the community, must be safeguarded. If freedom is suppressed, no matter who wins the controversy, we have lost our most precious possession. If by threat or intimidation we seek to silence our opponents we are aping the Communists. In demanding our rights to our own opinions, we must also grant to others that same right.

(2) The freedom of the pulpit must be maintained. There was a time when heretics—those who did not conform to the prevailing view—were burned. Now they are sometimes fired. So long as a minister is loyal to Christ, he should be encouraged to state his honest convictins on vital matters.

Every member of the church ought to ask, "In what spirit do I listen—in the spirit of brotherliness or in the spirit of bitterness?" If in the spirit of bitterness, he may stand condemned at the bar of his own conscience, for having a closed mind. If in brotherliness, he may learn some new truth to enrich his life.

(3) Let us quit calling our opponents names. Some people have called integrationists, Communists; some people have called segregationists un-Christian and undemocratic. The fact is you find good Christians and good Americans on both sides.

(4) In this controversy over race relations, only reason and love will win in the long run. Force in any form—threats, intimidation, coercion—has not the ghost of a chance of winning. Force may win a skirmish but it will lose the long war. The early church was persecuted. Many Christians were slain but the church, using only reason and love, won the long struggle. "The blood of the martyrs became the seed of the church." Tomorrow we will consider two other important principles.

Any Big Guns At Your House?

Col. Ned Julian is trying to get together some artillery. Not that Ned aims to fight. He's already retired from the Army and is now chief of staff for the Atlanta Historical Society and a member of the Georgia Historical Commission. What the colonel wants is a few cannons to fill the emplacements at Fort McAllister. He wants big guns.

Fort McAllister was the Confederate fort holding down the right of an exterior line of earthworks defending Savannah. The fort was on the right bank of the Ogeechee River, 10 miles east of Richmond Hill. The name was from nearby McAllister Plantation.

Federal naval guns pounding away for months hardly made a dent in the fort's sandbank armor. The world was learning that an absorbent was better than a brick wall as armament. The more the cannonballs crumbled the bricks at Fort Pulaski, on the Savannah River, the more resistant the walls became.

The North finally took Fort McAllister by land assault.

Now the State of Georgia has taken the fort, from the International Paper Co., as a gift.

Col. Julian's job is ordnance. He would like specifically an 8-in. Parrott, two 10-in. Parrotts, a 32-lb. rifled cannon, a 42-lb. smoothbore and a 10-in. mortar.

If you have any such big guns lying around your backyard, front yard or naval yard, let the man know: Col. Allen P. Julian, Atlanta Historical Society.

OLD FENCE PASSES: In a note sent with Ft. McAllister literature, Ned Julian says, "The end of an era is the removal (and probable scrapping) of the iron fence around the old Nunnally place at 25th and Peachtree in Atlanta. That fence was made in the old Winship Foundry, at Foundry street and the W.&A. R.R., which had been turning out large orders of railway cars and supplies and other iron products for the Confederacy." Originally around the Winship home on Third, behind the Howell House, the fence was one of the foundry's postwar "swords into ploughshares" products.

This Is the Season Of 'Quick Kickers'

Scientific tests have proved "beyond a reasonable doubt"—an advertising phrase meaning "we're almost sure"—that kicking an internal combustion engine with the foot has no therapeutic value. This is, in case it has escaped anyone's notice, the beginning of the Kick-an-Internal-Combustion-Engine-with-the-Foot-Season. The season coincides with the time of year when sweating and swearing heads of household take lawnmowers in hand to do something about the grass.

Frequently the devices employed in this punitive onslaught refuse to cooperate. Gasoline lawnmowers are sensitive and high strung and after a winter of indolence they often are reluctant to return to the work-a-day business of knocking over the tall green. The owner tugs and tugs at the rope, the blade swings wildly, the motor mutters but there is no explosive upheaval to indicate gas and air and spark have united in that togetherness that makes for motion. It is at this point that the foot often is put into action.

When everything else fails, or even before, there are the neighbors to fall back on. It is a rare man who is not an authority on the internal combustion engine.

"Say," a neighbor will say, "I think you're choking it too much," or "you'd better check that spark plug," or "are you sure the ingress of the fuel to the combustion chamber is unimpeded?" (This neighbor went to Princeton. He's asking if the gas line is blocked.)

There's an outside chance kicking it might help. I had a neighbor once who was one of the best lawnmower kickers in the business. His machine had a sticking float valve, and a well-aimed boot would put the beast back in the pink every time.

It is no step at all from the lawnmower engine to the power plant in the family automobile. The automobile motor has a few more gadgets and a few more cylinders, but the principle is the same. I'm a car engine putterer myself. Ever so often I raise the hood to see if the engine is still there. Kicking the recalcitrant auto engine just won't do, however. The thing is too high off the ground and the fenders get in the way.

Recently my car came to a dramatic halt late at night while I was motoring home from the offices of the South's Standard Newspaper. I raised the hood and the engine was there. Before I could make a more detailed inspection, three gentlemen coasted up and halted to give aid. They had been drinking a little w——. The trio tugged and pulled and pried at things. I kept saying, "It's all right." Finally, I found the battery wire was loose. We put the motor back in and away I whizzed.

Nothing to these internal combustion engines.

Atlanta's Swollen Slums Cost Taxpayers Millions

Disease, Illegitimacy Increase Heavy Burden at Grady, Welfare

By GENE BRITTON

Atlanta's slums cost the city's taxpayers millions of dollars annually in charity medical and welfare services.

A check into records of Fulton County Health Department revealed that 43 per cent of all cases of tuberculosis and 63 per cent of all syphilis cases in Atlanta occur within slum areas.

Grady Hospital said two-thirds of its patient load comes from within a three-mile radius of the hospital. The area includes three urban renewal areas and a number of slum sections which have not yet been brought under the urban renewal program.

Grady had an operating cost last year of $4,268,000—or an average of $16.67 a day for bed patients and $2.81 a visit for out patients. An official said all out patients were handled on a charity basis and 85 to 90 per cent of the patients received care which was billed to the taxpayer.

ILLEGITIMATE CHILDREN

The County Welfare Board said of approximately 550 illegitimate children within Atlanta receiving aid, 175 of them come from the three near-downtown urban renewal areas, which have a population of 24,648.

That means there is one illegitimate child for every 140 people in the urban renewal areas, compared to one for every 1,287 people living in the rest of the city. These figures represent only those children who are receiving county aid for dependent children.

One of every 191 persons in Atlanta's slums has tuberculosis. One out of every 428 people in the rest of the city has the disease.

SYPHILIS TOTALS

In the slums, one out of every 991 persons has syphilis. One out of every 5,096 persons in the remainder of Atlanta proper has that disease.

A spokesman for the Atlanta Tuberculosis 9ssociation who analyzed the Health Department statistics said the slums surrounding downtown Atlanta "are like huge incubators where infectious diseases thrive and spread."

Dr. James F. Hackney, Fulton County Health commissioner, pointed out that "while poor housing does not cause a contagious disease, crowded living conditions hasten the spread of germs."

TB IN SLUMS

Dr. C. C. Aven, an Atlanta physician who conducts evaluation clinics for TB patients, said most of the 517 patients he examined last year at the County Health Department came from blighted areas of the city.

Atlanta Tuberculosis Association officials quoted a report from a recent Chicago-Cook County TB Institute as saying almost all health problems among institutional inmates are related in some way to poor living conditions.

"It is probable the elimination of substandard living conditions—the cleaning out of slums—will clear up the TB situation eventually in many of these areas," a Chicago specialist was quoted.

FOUR-LANE COLLISION—A utility truck driven by Charles D. Howard of Smyrna overturned on the four-lane Marietta highway Sunday afternoon near the Chattahoochee River bridge. Officers said the truck slammed into another truck (extreme left) which was parked beside the highway. The parked truck, driven by James E. Cross of 315 Lawton St., Atlanta, was pushed about 25 feet, near the edge of the river embankment, reports showed. Neither Howard nor Cross was injured. Howard was booked for failure to remain in proper lane—accident, officers said.

Mid-Shift Union Members Return To Lockheed After 10-Day Strike

Union members of the "graveyard shift" at Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's Marietta plant began returning to their jobs at midnight Sunday, ending a costly 10-day walkout.

The majority of the 8,000 striking machinists were expected to return to work later Monday, however, since the number of workers on the midnight-to-7 shift is considerably smaller than the day and swing shift forces.

"About 135 telegrams went out recalling workers on the graveyard shift," a Lockheed official said. "We hope to have about two-thirds of our work force back on the jobs in their various shifts Monday."

C. A. Perry, night manager of Western Union in Atlanta, said his office Saturday and Sunday handled about 8,000 telegrams from Lockheed officials notifying workers to report back to work on their regular shifts.

Picket lines thrown up by District 33, International Assn. of Machinists, when the strike began on May 7, were withdrawn Saturday night, a union leader said.

About 57 per cent of the 7,000 strikers voting cast ballots in favor of accepting a two-year contract Saturday.

Carl Kotchian, vice president and general manager of Lockheed's Georgia Division, estimated that by Tuesday about 97 per cent of the work force would be called back to their jobs.

7 Georgians Are Killed In Weekend Traffic

Traffic crashes took a toll of seven Georgians over the weekend—four in the state and three outside the state.

Latest victim in the State Patrol count was Rebecca Brown, 4, of Scottdale. (Story on Page 1).

Other fatalities in Georgia were Albert Lee Smith, 42, of Louisville, who was killed when his car overturned Sunday morning on Georgia Highway 296; Charley Hugley, 23, of Macon, who was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding went out of control and wrecked on a curve near Macon; and Eugen E. Tutt, 25, Columbia County, who died Friday night when hit by a hit-run motorist near Appling.

Out of state highway accidents brought death to these Georgians: James R. Fincher, 34, of Atlanta, killed near Seale, Ala., Inez B. Barton, 41, of West Point, killed when her car overturned near Opelika, Ala.; and James C. Hardigree, 23, of Farmington, who died in a truck-auto accident near Rocky Mount, N.C.

The only real test of a car is . . .

How does it rate on the road ?

Judge for yourself which car handles easier, corners better.

Judge for yourself which car rides smoother, gives greater control.

You may think that all cars are about the same in the performance department. You may think they all ride about the same, handle about the same, respond about the same.

The fact is, there's a big difference in how cars rate on the road.

Until you actually drive a Swept-Wing 58 Dodge—actually give it a shakedown test on the road—you just can't imagine how big the difference really is.

Take the wheel...get the Swept-Wing feel!

You spend a lot of time in your car—driving to work, shopping, taking trips. How your car rates on the road is important to you. So all we ask before you invest in a new car is this: Come in and take a "road rate" drive in a Swept-Wing 58 Dodge. Really compare it thoroughly. We honestly believe it rides better, handles easier, responds quicker than any other car you've ever driven. But we'll leave it up to you. You be the judge.

YOU BE THE JUDGE! THINGS TO NOTICE IN THE SWEPT-WING 58:

The feel behind the wheel—You feel different in a Swept-Wing 58 Dodge because you sit differently. Low and snug and secure, completely in control, almost a part of the car itself. Owners tell us it's a feeling they've never experienced before.

The view around you—The glass area in Swept-Wing 58 is tremendous. The visibility is outstanding in every direction—front, sides, rear. Note how the Dodge "picture window" windshield wraps around at the top as well as the sides.

The ease of push-button driving—Once you try Dodge Push-Button TorqueFlite you'll never be happy with outmoded lever types. A touch of a button controls all driving ranges—safely, surely, positively. Ladies love it.

A ride that's a glide—None of the things you've heard about Torsion-Aire ride adequately decribes just how you feel in a Dodge. There's no sway on curves, no dip at stops, the going is always smoother. Torsion-Aire is standard equipment, too.

This power steering is different—No power steering is like Dodge power steering. It works full time to take all the chore out of driving, yet leaves you the feel of the road. You'll know the difference as soon as you turn the wheel.

Horsepower and stopping power—You get all the horsepower you want in a Dodge (up to 320 hp.). You also get the kind of gasoline economy for which Dodge is famous. You get greater stopping power, too, from new-design Total-Contact Brakes.

rebels that would jeopardize the status of Algeria as part of France.

GENERAL STEPS DOWN

Since then, one of the general's former close associates, deputy Jacques Soustelle, has fled to Algiers to join the dissident movement and France's top soldier, Gen. Paul Ely, armed forces chief of staff, has resigned in circumstances suggesting disavowal of the government.

The Pflimlin cabinet, armed with emergency powers, was apparently standing firm. But it was clearly at the mercy of a movement by the army in France, in which Gaullism has deep roots, or defections within the government or high administration. Band-wagon psychology would have an important part in rallying opportunists if De Gaulle's chances of ultimate victory appeared to be improving. One of two declarations for him by important politicians could send a host of smaller fry scurrying to join him.

De Gaulle's conduct at his press conference Monday is expected to be decisive in this respect. Authoritative political circles said if, as has been his wont in the past, he fails to conceal his dislike and contempt for the parliamentary regime; if he fails to disengage himself from the dissident movement in Algiers and if he fails to answer satisfactorily questions on his position on such vital matters as the Atlantic Pact and European integration, he will solidify the opposition against him.

COULD INCREASE BACKING

If, on the other hand, he adopts a conciliatory attitude and makes it clear that he envisages assumption of power only by legal means, and if he satisfies questioners on his position on major issues, then his still immense prestige could attract new adherents even among the members of Parliament who have stood firm against him thus far.

De Gaulle could come to power in any one of three ways. He might be swept into office by a coup d'etat based on army action, with or without his prior knowledge and consent. This would almost certainly provoke violent reaction from the left and extreme left—Communist-inspired and led general strikes, clashes with the army, or civil war. It now appears to be the least likely prospect.

Secondly, the general could come to power by ordinary constitutional processes. If the present government resigned, President Rene Coty could then designate him as premier—the law does not limit the post to members of Parliament. He could then present his cabinet and program to the National Assembly like any other nominee and abide by the result of a vote.

In such a case, he would be almost certain to demand of the deputies that they authorize him to present a new constitution with powers centralized in the presidency to a national referendum and rule by decree in the meantime. He could not legally dissolve the assembly under present conditions unless that body itself approved a resolution calling for new elections.

He could also come to power through election as president of the republic. If Coty should resign, the National Assembly and Council of the Republic, meeting in joint session at Versailles, could elect any eligible Frenchman, including De Gaulle, to replace him. Coty has given no sign that he intends to resign and this solution of the crisis is regarded as purely an academic one.

De Gaulle's press conference Monday might be a signal for a major effort by the Communists and allies to demonstrate against him and in defiance of the government ban.

ALGERIA CRISIS TOMORROW

The first political reaction to De Gaulle's new bid was expected Tuesday when Pflimlin must ask the assembly to renew a special powers bill for Algeria. He is expected to make it clear that unless he gets a clear majority, independent of 150 votes controlled by the Communists, he will resign. The new government crisis then would be a clear-cut indication to De Gaulle. Therefore, many observers agreed, deputies will be voting Tuesday not on a special powers bill alone but also for or against De Gaulle.

De Gaulle, at Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises in eastern France, received a message Sunday from Gen. Ely but no information as to its contents was available. A member of his own staff and a messenger from the Association of Veterans of De Gaulle's wartime Free French movement also called on the general during the day at his home, now guarded by 30 gendarmes and a half dozen plain-clothes inspectors.

For the second time in three days planes of the French Air Force swooped low over De Gaulle's country home in a gesture widely interpreted as a salute to him and an expression of sympathy, at least from that part of the air force flying the planes.

AV ASKS DE GAULLE

Retired Gen. Augustine Guillaume, former chief of staff and once resident general of Morocco, called Sunday on Coty to present a resolution by the Association of Veterans he heads urging the return of De Gaulle and expressing solidarity with their "colleagues of the army in Algeria."

The position of those "colleagues in Algeria" appeared to be as varying and equivocal as it has been since the beginning, at least on the basis of dispatches reaching Paris. Soustelle, Gaullist deputy, gone to Algeria, now apparently in effective if not official direction of the movement, went from one triumphal appearance to another cheered by European and Moslem alike. The cheers were for "the republic," "French Algeria," and many saying "Vive La France" and Vive De Gaulle."

The main responsibility for keeping order in France was in the experienced hards of socialist Jules Moch, minister of the interior. Moch acquired a reputation as a tough, effective riot-breaker in the same post in 1947-48 when French Communists unleashed disorders in an attempt to block implementation of the Marshall Plan.

Speaking to the nation on the radio Sunday, Moch called for "unlimited devotion" to the republic and its government from all Frenchmen.

The defense ministry called up "certain categories" of reservists in the national gendarmerie —the national police organization under military control—to reinforce territorial brigades. It would permit formation of a substantial number of mobile gendarmerie platoons, the ministry said, without revealing, however, the number of men affected.

Griffin Is Mounting New Counterattack

drink sales in the cities that allow them.

The "hard" line of approach seems to be the third distinct stage of administration reaction to its troubles that began with the exposure of the Baxley road irregularities in March.

At first, the administration was not inclined to take the Baxley disclosures too seriously. Investigations were ordered. But there was confidence in administration circles that nothing would be shown greatly amiss. The Highway Department's report on its initial investigation said just that; but the report was promptly exploded by reporters and by fresh disclosures of wrongdoing at Baxley and elsewhere.

That brought the second stage of administration reaction.

Gov. Griffin and some of his officials now appeared genuinely concerned about the growing reports of laxity and irregularities. A new—and this time apparently thorough — investigation was ordered of the Baxley paving scandals. Prison Director Jack Forrester moved swiftly and forcefully on charges of illegal use of convict labor in various parts of the state. Gov. Griffin on two occasions called his department heads together and told them in no uncertain terms to straighten out any laxity in their jurisdiction; division highway engineers were given the same instructions.

CRITICISM CONTINUED

But the disclosures and criticism of Griffin's handling of the state's affairs continued. And the administration, smarting under its continuous pounding, began to fight back.

Griffin signaled the "get tough" strategy on April 25 with a statement hinting that criticism and charges against his administration were a plot on the part of the Atlanta newspapers to destroy the county unit system. He also said the papers were trying to make it appear that all government wrong-doing began when he took office.

There followed a number of developments indicating the new administration line:

GILMER CONVICTS

Griffin made a personal appearance in Gilmer County and virtually promised to return the convicts that had been removed by Forrester upon newspaper evidence that they had been used widely on private property.

He wrote to the mayors and councilmen of all cities and towns listing paving done in each under his administration and accusing the Atlanta papers of seeking to "discredit" this work. He asked them to let him know of any irregularities in the work.

The governor slapped back at the Fulton County Grand Jury's criticism of Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams' handling of liquor laws by suggesting that the jury look into mixed drink sales in private clubs and bars in Atlanta.

LIQUOR AD HALT

And finally came Williams' order—backed by Griffin—halting liquor advertising in the Atlanta papers.

Griffin and his advisers must realize that their strategy will harden the line of political opposition to them.

But the Griffin administration is in a tough spot. And its leaders must have concluded a counter offensive is their only hope of getting off the defensive.

Neuritis Form of Rheumatism Due to Nerve Pressure

Pains and aches shooting through the arms and legs and over the shoulder commonly felt this time of year is a form of neuritis and is often called rheumatic neuritis. The science of Chiropractic contends that rheumatic neuritis is caused by nerve pressure. A recent book entitled "Fractures and Other Bone and Joint Injuries," written by R. Watson-Jones, again verifies the Chiropractic principle. The following are a few sentences from the book: "Joint subluxation (displacement) is more serious than is generally recognized. The displacement may follow a severe injury such as a fall on the head or a dive in shallow water. In other instances the accident appears unimportant. The resulting nerve root irritation and compression then led to persistent disabling neuritis in one or both upper limbs."

Dr. Grady Lake

A chiropractor locates and removes the nerve irritation. When the cause of neuritis is removed the nerve subsequently heals and the pain subsides.

the meal on the table by the time Board of Corrections bus arrived.

Boardtown Community, which spent the winter in the mud and was looking forward to having its road to town paved at the time the convict camp closed, may have started the whole thing. But within a few hours women all over the county were picking chickens and baking cakes.

By the time the convicts came back about 6 p.m. Saturday the long tables were spread with vegetables and meats of all kinds, layer cakes and apple and cherry pies, more than 100 fried chickens "stacked up like stove wood," hot biscuits, rolls and cornbread.

The Rev. Ed Parks, a Baptist minister who lives near the camp, said the invocation, praying for both the hosts and the guests. And that was the only speech on the program—by decree of the women of the county.

"There's time for eating and there's time for talking. Let's have the eating now," one of the women said.

The convicts ate at the first table. Citizens of the county ate second and after that enough food was put away to last through Sunday, Commissioner Logan said.

Work will be resumed on the Boardtown and Tails Creek roads Monday, the operation of the rock quarry will reopen and details will be assigned to resume planting of 35 acres of corn and five acres of vegetables to supply food for the works camp, the commissioner said.

paid $900 cash to settle a $1777.41 case with the Douglas tax office.

Commenting on that case last Thursday, State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams said that no official or employe can legally "settle" a sales tax case for less than the amount owed. He also said the state is required to give a receipt for any payments.

Williams refused to let a reporter check the grocer's sales tax records, saying he was prohibited from opening the records without written consent from the taxpayer.

In the Douglas case, O. T. Walker said that last January, a state sales tax agent he knew as "Smut" Davis began checking his company's records. He said that about three weeks later, Davis told him he owed about $2,200 for sales tax for the past four years.

"I told him that he was charging me for labor, which is not subject to sales tax," Walker said. "But he said I didn't have the records to prove it was labor and not sales.

"He told me he had checked the bank records of my company and had assessed me on $54,000, levying a 3 per cent sales tax on my total deposits for the four-year period, less the amount of sales tax I had paid during the period.

"I told him that the assessment was not fair, but he said it was up to me to prove I didn't owe the money."

Walker said that Davis told him he would have to take his records to McGregor to settle the case.

"I went to see Mr. McGregor the following week and took my records to him," Walker said. "Mr. McGregor looked at the records and said they were 'not worth a damn.' I took my records and left the office."

Walker said that about Feb. 18 his brother, Harry, told him he had heard that the sales tax office "was going to put a fi-fa on my business and sell it to settle a tax claim."

In their affidavits, the brothers said that on about March 13 they went to see another tax employe named Davis, who was assistant manager of the Douglas office.

They said that Davis told them he knew nothing about the case, but that he looked over some records and "told us that he thought we could close it out by paying about $1,600."

Harry Walker said he asked three different Coffee County citizens—a lawyer, an accountant and a businessman—to talk to McGregor and try to "get him to reduce the amount of the sales tax."

Harry Walker said, "The businessman later called me and told me he had talked to Mr. McGregor and that Mr. McGregor told him the case could be settled for $1,200.

"On or about March 17, I went with my brother to see Mr. McGregor in the Douglas tax office. Mr. McGregor told us the sales tax bill would be $1,310. He said that it would have to be paid in cash and he also said he could not give us a receipt.

"We asked when did we have to have the money. He said he was in no hurry, that he wanted to give us time to arrange for borrowing the money.

"The following day I called Mr. McGregor and he told me that after talking it over with the . . . businessman, he remembered that the bill was supposed to be $1,200 and not $1,310.

"I went with my brother and his wife to the Coffee County Bank (near the sales tax office) and borrowed $1,200. While in the bank, I called Mr. McGregor and asked him when he wanted us to bring the money.

"It was about 4 p.m. then and Mr. McGregor said to wait until after 5 p.m. to bring the money to his office. The tax office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"My brother's wife carried the $1,200 in her purse and we went to the office at 5 p.m. Mr. McGregor was not there, but we waited and he came in about 5:30 p.m.

"He told us the tax bill would be $1,165.63, which he said was the exact amount of taxes owed, less penalty and interest which he was dropping.

"All three of us—my brother, his wife and I—counted the $1,165.63 out to Mr. McGregor on his desk. Mr. McGregor thanked us and told us that he was glad to help us. He said he knew that $1,165 was a lot of money, but that it was a lot less than $2,200."

According to the sworn statements, O. T. Walker and his wife insisted on getting a receipt, but McGregor told them that he could not give a receipt and that the money was going into a "special account" in a Macon bank.

The Walker brothers quoted McGregor as saying that he could give them a receipt only if they paid the full amount of $2,200.

McGregor also told them he was going to tear up the sales tax records of the Douglas Neon Sign Co. and assign the company a new sales tax number, according to the affidavits.

"He told us the tax case was closed and I wouldn't hear of it again," O. T. Walker swore. "I haven't received a new sales tax number and I have heard nothing further from the Douglas tax office about my sales tax records."

Sales tax representatives from Atlanta reportedly went to Douglas over the weekend to check on the case of the Jesup grocer, Terah Woodcock.

Woodcock told The Constitution he put up $900 to settle a $1,777.41 tax case with the Douglas tax office. He said he told the agent who checked his records that he didn't think he owed the money, but that the agent told him he didn't have the records to prove he didn't owe it.

W. W. (Babe) Davis of Odum charged in an affidavit that he represented Woodcock in the transaction and paid the $900 to McGregor, who he said refused to give him a receipt.

Davis also swore that McGregor told him that he would have to take the $900 to a superior in Atlanta and that he and the superior "would have to fix there records so it would check out with the state auditor's office."

Without checking records on this case, Revenue Commissioner Williams declared flatly that no one would pay $900 without getting a receipt.

Williams said that while he could not let a reporter check Woodcock's records, he would have his own men check the case. He said he was leaving for Los Angeles, Calif., and would not be back in Atlanta until Wednesday.

Wife Dies of Wounds Received When Mate Killed Niece and Self

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Dora Stinson Blair, 35, died early Sunday at Cobb Memorial Hospital here from a gunshot wound in the face.

She became the third victim of her estranged husband's shooting spree here Saturday morning, according to police.

Officers said James W. Blair, a Navy veteran who was employed in a Columbus textile plant, fatally shot Patricia Ann Austin, who would have been four years old in July, wounded Mrs. Blair and C. A. Austin and took his own life at Austin's home on Rte. 1, Phenix City.

Police said the shootings resulted from "a jealous explosion" sparked by Blair's wife leaving him last week.

According to Phenix City police, Mrs. Blair had taken their seven children and left home last Monday. She took up residence near the home of her sister and brother-in-law, the Austins.

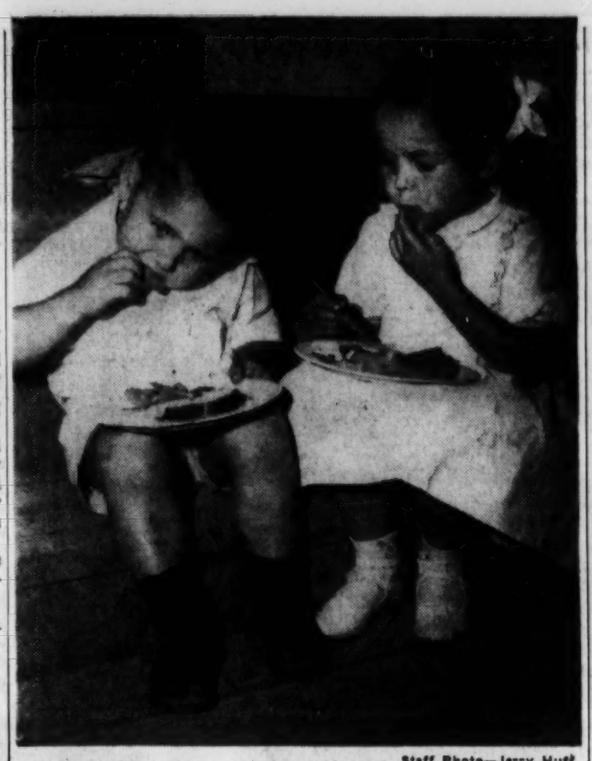

Blair, according to Police Chief Pat Mihelic, drove from his home on Lakewood Drive to the Austin home, where Mr. and Mrs. Austin, two of their children and Mrs. Blair were seated on the porch.

Mihelic said Blair stepped out of his automobile, within view of the entire neighborhood, and fired into the graup, chasing some of them into the house and shooting them.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Blair will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. (CST) at Hopewell Primitive Baptist Church near Troy. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Funeral for the child will be held at 4:30 p.m. Monday at Colonial Funeral Home chapel.

2-Member Church Marks 147th Year

By KAY McLEOD
Constitution Church Editor

JEFFERSONVILLE — The long tables set up under the trees were piled high with platters of chicken and ham, homebaked cakes and other country-style delicacies and the worship service was in the old-fashioned "casual style" as folks from near and far "came home" to Old Richland Baptist Church Sunday.

This 147-year-old "landmark of Christianity" is located on a dusty country road six miles west of Jeffersonville. Services are held only once a month. There are only two names on the rolls, but more than 200 folks who trace their spiritual ties to this white-columned structure came back this Sunday forthe annual Home-coming Day.

As the 11:30 a.m. service, "run by the charm of Brother Gaddis" (the Rev. M. R. Gaddis, a retired Baptist preacher), got under way, out came the old paper fans, supplied by a funeral home, to stir the warm air in the one-room church.

Old songs, such as "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "Steal Away to Jesus" were sung with equal vigor by the teen-agers in their bright summery dress and the graying older members in their dark dresses and suits.

"This carries us back to the old days in old country churches," declared Dr. Carey T. Vinzant, president of Tift College, who gave the morning "discourse."

"It used to be the custom in this church for a preacher to preach anywhere between an hour and an hour-and-a-half. So we'll just be here till we get through," said the minister.

"But don't worry," he cautioned Brother Gaddis, "you won't have to leave at noon to go out and water the horses."

Dr. Vinzant didn't preach for an hour-and-a-half or even an hour, however. He settled down to a modern-day 20 minutes.

"This is a day of fellowship," mused the 76-year-old Rev. Gaddis.

And fellowship it was as people who hadn't seen each other since last Homecoming Day met and embraced with the usual remarks: "My, you've lost weight," "What a lovely dress," "Haven't the children grown," and "Isn't the church pretty."

After the service the homecomers streamed out to their cars to unload the baskets and boxes of delicious homecooking.

The cakes came in all varieties from cheesecake to chocolate and there was potato salad, ham, for all and even so much fried chicken that Brother Gaddis smiled at a half-empty platter and said, "I just can't eat any more."

Eight-year-old Joseph Winters eyed the mountains of food and sighed, "I didn't eat any breakfast this morning. I was saving up for this."

Many of the visitors came from the New Richland Church, located a few miles away on the Jeffersonville-Warner Robins Road. Old Richland was a mother of this congregation which was founded in 1915.

Wage Increase For Telephone Employes Urged

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, Sunday called for substantial wage increases and improved vacation schedules for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. employes.

In a television speech on WSB-TV he said union officials spent days studying trends in the nation's economy.

"Our unanimous decision was that we could help end the recession best of all by asking for a substantial wage increase which would put more money into circulation . . . in all of the thousands of communities where telephone workers live and spend their income," he said.

Beirne heads a CWA union team now engaged in collective bargaining with Southern Bell. The present contract expires May 21 and covers some 56,000 workers in nine Southeastern states.

City Opens Streets for Business Use

Streets in the Piedmont avenue-Baker street, NE, area that have been blocked off because of Expressway construction will be open to vehicular traffic bound for businesses in that section, city construction chief Ray A. Nixon said Sunday.

The city Friday began routing motorists around the intersection at Piedmont and Baker to permit preliminary work on the downtown Expressway connector there, Nixon said.

"However, there are several businesses in that section to which regular access will be maintained," he said. "Work on the Expressway bridge will begin as soon as utilities in that area have been adjusted."

"We hope to provide access there in much the same way as we have on Peachtree street at Forrest avenue," he added. (Peachtree was closed just north of Forrest for construction of the Peachtree street bridge over the connector).

Nixon estimated the Piedmont-Baker intersection will be blocked for eight or nine months. Meanwhile, Courtland street has been opened to two-way traffic from Ponce de Leon avenue to Edgewood avenue, he said.

East Point Policeman Shot And His Assailant Wounded

lying face down on the floor of the upstairs apartment.

Both the policeman and his assailant were sped to Grady Hospital for emergency treatment. Condition of both was described as "critical."

Officer J. L. Craft went with Williams to 1435 Willingham Dr., East Point, to investigate a report that Thomas and occupants of another apartment were fighting. Police had been informed that Thomas had threatened to fire on his neighbors with a 12-gauge shotgun.

As Williams entered the building, he called for Thomas, who opened his door and fired upon the officer. Craft ran to the patrol car and radioed for help and an ambulance.

Among the first officers to arrive on the scene to help Craft capture Thomas were officer A. M. Howle and Sgt. R. E. Stanley. They accompanied Officer Williams on the emergency ambulance run to Grady Hospital.

Howle and Stanley said Williams suffered a wound in the right side of the abdomen.

Surgeons were unable to determine immediately the number of times Thomas was shot.

Physicians began immediately administering blood transfusions to the wounded officer. They said that they needed a type "O-Negative" blood, and blood donors from as far away as Fayetteville answered a police call for that type of blood.

? Pitching for Northside

Wayman Creel, eminent rebuilder of Northside baseball fortunes, had sounded offbase that early April afternoon. His Tigers, defending 3-AAA champions, had lost game No. 2 in outing No. 2—a perfect record of sorts.

"We'll be okay," he had predicted. "Just let our pitching get squared away."

It must be recorded now on this AAA baseball tournament eve that Creel was correct . . . to a certain degree. The team did "okay," winning 14 of 16 from that point for the 3-AAA west crown, and then taking Roosevelt High, two games to one, for the overall 3-AAA championship, No. 3 in succession for Creel-coached teams. But the pitching wasn't entirely "squared away." Rather, the hitting was so lusty that even an inexperienced hurler had difficulty conjuring methods to lose.

ATKINSON

Creel leaned back in the comfortable chair at his Hammond Drive home, and contemplated a question Sunday afternoon. How about that pitching? Will it carry Northside to its first AAA baseball championship, and give the Northside Drive school its second major state diadem of 1957-58 to go with the handsome football title contrived by Creel's football forces?

"I can't say," Creel answered cautiously. "The pitching is inexperienced. Not one of our front-line pitchers had thrown in a varsity game before this season. They haven't had any tournament experience.

"Just look at the staff. Our ace is a 14-year-old freshman, Dick Rositer, probably the coolest pitcher for his age you'll want to see, but untested in this tournament. Next in line is John Ferguson, who has rapidly improved but hadn't pitched before this year. And there's Lamar Lummus, a B team graduate who was 5-1 for us this year."

The pitching situation, thus, must be labeled a large question mark. It was sufficient to win 16 of 19 games, but then the hurlers' colleagues averaged nearly eight runs per game and were just shy of a team bat mark of .300.

—'New Look' Describes Creel's Tigers

This is a "new" team. Graduation stripped Creel of his 1957 "Big Three" pitchers of right-handers Max Staples and Rick Madison and left-hander Curtis Beavers. The infield is minus second baseman Mike Thomas, third baseman John Baker and outfielders Gordon Beckham and Jimmy Adams are gone.

Creel made some hasty readjustments this spring. Most daring innovation was moving three-year catching regular Stan Gann, the chunky little man, to second base to give some batting oomph to the infield. He placed Bobby Kirkland, a good hitter and No. 2 backstop of '57, behind the plate.

The switch of Gann has worked admirably. He handled nine chances flawlessly in the vital play-off with Roosevelt, started one double play, was middle man in another.

Another switch was on the right track. Sophomore Britt Madison was shoved into the third base gap left by Baker's graduation, and the ex-B team catcher responded well. Madison also handled nine chances without a bobble in the Roosevelt series, started two double killings, and had five-for-10.

Big brother Robert Madison, a senior, '57 outfield sub Glenn Ulrici and sophomore Buddy Milton form the outfield. Ulrici, always a sharp outfielder, has surprised with a sudden surge of batting; ditto for Robert Madison, who averages .364; and Milton, a timely if not profuse hitter at .274.

There are "old pros" on the team—if GHSA secretary Sam Burke and Atlanta City Schools athletic director Sid Scarborough will pardon the dastardly expression. Chief is junior shortstop Ben Ferguson, John's younger brother and a veteran of three varsity years. Ben, a switch-hitter, batted a large .474 and poled eight home runs. First-baseman-pitcher brother John batted .396 over the 18-game season, then won his own game by whamming a grand-slam homer while throwing a 5-1, five-hitter at Roosevelt in the City decider. And, of course, there's Gann, a line-drive hitter of .345 average but of much better repute.

—The Rositer Story: B Team to 6-0

Rositer, whether or not he wins at Thomaston, has been the story of the season. Midway of the campaign, he was working with undefeated credentials for the B team. Creel scheduled a game with his B team, and Rositer looked good. So he was dispatched to the varsity.

His first game was a victory over Southwest, in one of the wild 16-4 Tiger scoring orgies. But he later came back to shut out the Wolves on one hit, and Creel became increasingly interested in him. Rositer finished 5-0 on the season, and became the No. 1 pitcher.

So Creel hesitated not in throwing him against Roosevelt after the Tigers had dropped the opener of the best two-of-three set. Rositer faltered not, turning back Roosevelt, 6-2, on a four-hitter.

"Rositer's secret?" Creel repeated a question. "It's his ability to keep the batters off balance. They never know at what speed that pitch's coming because the kid is always changing up. And sometimes he'll surprise with a sneaky-fast ball that just isn't supposed to be thrown by a 5-8, 145-pound 14-year-old."

Creel has indicated that he will open the AAA tournament Monday with John Ferguson going against Savannah. He reasons that Ferguson is more experienced tournament-wise, though not necessarily as a pitcher. This recognizes a gritty effort by Ferguson to master the fundamentals of pitching.

"John was wild at first," Creel appraised. "But he has improved each game. Not having pitched before, he wasn't sure of himself early in the season, but he's really caught on to pitching now. He's strong, and if he kept working I think he'd develop into a real good pitcher."

How does this club stack up with his teams of past years? "In hitting," Creel replied, "it's the best. Never before have I had such solid hitting all down the order, nor as heavy-swinging. The fellows hit 19 homers in 21 games, and most of 'em came with men aboard.

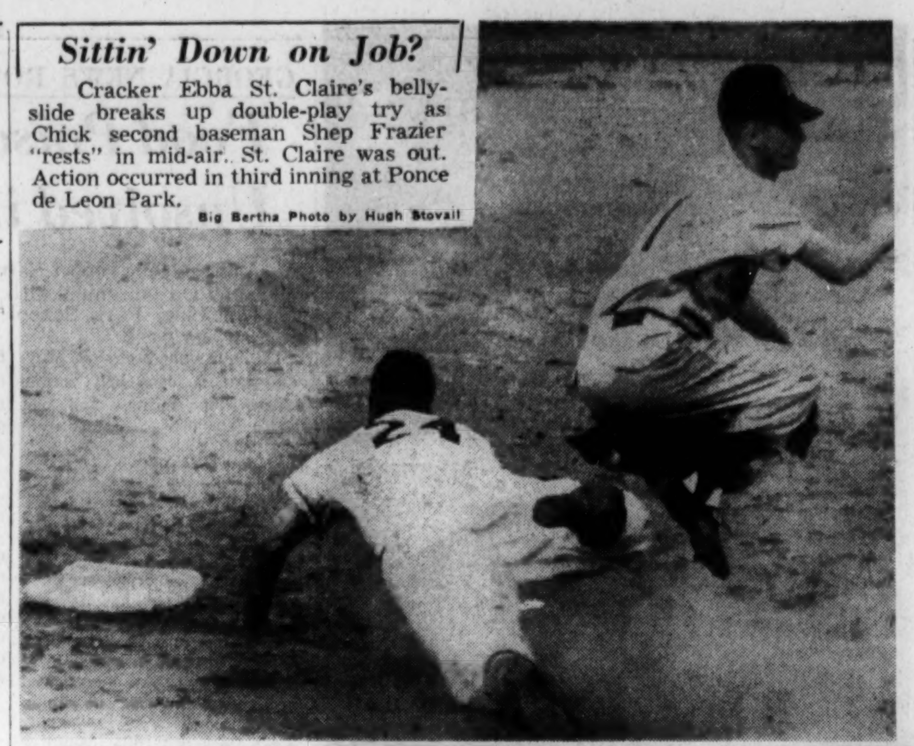

"Defensively, it's inexperienced to a certain degree. Britt Madison's coming through at third base has helped shore up the inner defenses. And that pitching . . . it's like I said, we just hope that it will be good enough to do the job."

Wayman Creel, the master rebuilder of baseball fortunes, won't have to wait long. The answer is at hand. Savannah, Griffin and Baker give him and his Tigers the straight poop, for better or worse, Monday.

It Takes 12 Innings, But Crax Win, 9-8

Chuck Cottier Makes Chicks Pay for Early Game Gift

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Chuck Cottier made atonement with his bat for the indiscretion of his usually magic glove Sunday, and the Crackers completed a three-game series sweep from Memphis with a pulsating 9-8 victory.

It was the 12th inning before Cottier assured a Ponce de Leon Park crowd of 5,588 that the Crackers had widened the margin of their newly won Southern Association leadership.

But when he swiped a single through the shortstop-third base hole to score John DeMerit with the winning run and only one man out, he had paid his debt in full for a costly early game error.

Cottier began his show of retribution much earlier for dropping a double play ball, an error that helped the Chicks to a four-run first inning. For it was Cottier who belted home the first two Cracker runs with a second inning double behind leadoff walks to Poochie Hartsfield and Buck Riddle.

The Crackers, showing the mettle of which championship teams are made, came from behind twice before finally pulling out the decision in the dramatic 12th frame.

DeMerit led off the inning by drawing a walk off Lefty Arnold Earley fourth Memphis pitcher of the afternoon. Hartsfield sacrificed DeMerit to second, and the Chicks elected to walk Riddle intentionally to set up a double play situation.

But Cottier had other plans and rapped a ground shot into left field. DeMerit, fastest Cracker, scored with plenty to spare.

The pitching victory became the property of Bob Hartman, winningest hurler in the loop. The left-hander, fifth Atlanta flinger to see action, claimed his eighth triumph. The loss was soaked up by Early. It was his third.

Atlanta overcame that error-spawned first inning, pecking away to go into a 5-4 lead in the fifth inning.

But the Chicks called out their long artillery and almost pulled out the verdict over the regulation route. Doug Hubacek and Lee Howell poled solo home runs in the eighth and ninth innings after Larry DiPippo put the visitors ahead, 6-5, with a two-run wrong-field blast over the left-field fence in the seventh.

The Crackers had a three-run comeback left in their systems, though, and overhauled the Chicks in the last of the ninth. Earley himself helped the home cause, by wild pitching the tying marker across.

Bill Slack, who had hurled one-hit relief ball for three innings, walked pesky Bruce Barmes to open that inning and successive singles by Dick Phillips and

Turley Hurls 4th Shutout

Maglie Wins First As Yankees Take 2

WASHINGTON (AP)— Bob Turley pitched his fourth shutout of the season and sixth straight victory Sunday as the streaking New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from Washington 5-2 and 3-0. The Yanks now have won six in a row.

Sal Maglie helped win his own game with a three-run homer, his first in the American League, although the 41-year-old right-hander needed ninth inning help from Ryne Duren to take the opener.

Vice President Nixon was among the 27,704 fans who saw the Senators drop their fifth straight in a decline from a contending position.

Turley's second straight shutout lowered his earned run average this season to 0.83. All six of his victories have been complete games.

Antonelli-Miller Duo Boosts Giants Into National Lead

Cubs Rapped Twice, 7-3, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Antonelli and Stu Miller pitched the San Francisco Giants into the National League lead Sunday with 7-3 and 4-0 victories over the Chicago Cubs.

The Giants, who now have won 10 of their last 12 games, took a one-game lead over the world champion Milwaukee Braves who lost to Cincinnati, 11-7.

Antonelli held the Cubs to five hits in the opener for his third triumph in six decisions. Miller, who failed to finish a single game in 13 starts last year, twirled a three-hitter for his first triumph against no losses.

Danny O'Connell, Willie Kirkland and Jim Davenport provided San Francisco's offense. O'Connell had a pair of doubles in the first game, driving in three runs and scoring another, and Kirkland drove in three in the opener on a single and a two-run triple.

O'Connell had a single, double and triple in the second game, driving in one run and scoring two, while Kirkland pitched in with two more singles and an RBI. Davenport had three hits including a pair of doubles in the second game.

The Cubs were able to hit only six balls out of the infield off Miller, who baffled them with an assortment of slow stuff. He was in trouble only in the second inning when the Cubs loaded the bases on a walk, a single by Sam Taylor and Johnny Goryl's infield hit.

Crowe, Fondy Home Runs Help Redlegs Outslug Braves, 11-7

CINCINNATI (AP)—Home runs by first sacker George Crowe and transplanted outfielder Dee Fondy helped trigger a Cincinnati Redleg slugging binge Sunday that trounced the Milwaukee Braves, 11-7.

Dee Fondy Bob Purkey

Veteran right-hander Bob Purkey had to squelch a ninth inning uprising to clinch the victory.

A Brave rally got started in the ninth with two singles followed by Johnny Logan's fourth homer this season. But Purkey threw out Eddie Mathews for the final out.

The veteran right-hander went all the way for the third time this year and his fourth victory. But he was tagged for 13 hits including three homers.

Purkey had some unsteady moments at the start of the game when the Braves picked off one homer apiece in the first two innings. Mathews started with a four-base blast in the first inning. Joe Adcock turned the trick in the second.

A rhubarb developed midway in the Reds' big fourth inning when Frank Robinson was hit by a pitch from reliefer Dick Littlefield.

UMP WARNS LOES ABOUT WHAT HE THROWS

Charlie Berry Has 'Few' Words With Baltimore Pitcher

Bosox Belts Cut Down Baltimore

Umpires Warn Loes About 'Wet' Ball

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Gernert crashed a pair of towering homers and Jackie Jensen contributed a tremendous three-run blast Sunday in leading the Boston Red Sox to an 8-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Gernert belted his fourth homer of the year with two out in the fourth and then hit his fifth with Ted Williams on base in the sixth. The big first baseman also drove in the first Boston run with a pop double to right in the opening inning.

Billy Loes, who was charged with his fourth straight loss, was suspected of throwing spitballs with Williams at bat in the second.

The Baltimore right-hander rolled the ball on the ground to plate umpire Nestor Chylak. Then first-base umpire Charlie Berry called for the ball and Loes rolled it to him.

When the next pitch finally was served, Williams fouled it off, making the count 2-2. Chylak and Berry rushed Loes, demanding the ball. Loes handed the ball to Chylak and was warned by the umpires.

Williams ended matters by banging a single off the Baltimore hurler's legs.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Behind the right-handed pitching of rookie Ray Semproch and Jack Sanford, the Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader Sunday from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, 6-2.

The Phillies extended their victory string to four games as they reversed the action of last weekend. The Pirates tripped the Phillies twice last sunday to complete a four-game sweep of their series in Pittsburgh.

Phillies outfielders Chuck Essegian and Rip Repulski belted home runs in the first game. They were matched by Pittsburgh's Dick Groat and Frank Thomas, his 12th, in the first game. The Pirate runs in the second game were scored on R. C. Smith's fifth homer and Bob Skinner's second.

SAY, WILLIE, NEW YORK WAS NEVER LIKE THIS!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Here's bad news for Willie Mays, San Francisco Giant outfielder.

His new white Cadillac convertible got smashed up Saturday night. His wife, Marguerite, who fell down a stairs at 2 a.m. at their home a couple of weeks ago and got hurt, was hurt again but not badly.

Mrs. Mays' brother, Charles Wendell, 29, who tends bar at the Blue Mirror, was driving. He got cited for running a red light.

The Cadillac and a taxicab collided. It was owned by the Friendly Cab Co. Damage to Mays' car was estimated by garagemen at $700.

Mrs. Mays suffered a wrist injury.

DIAMOND DIARY

STREAKS SPAWN SURGE BY CRACKERS

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

All "streaks" aren't hitting streaks like recent 19 and 17-game skeins of Atlanta's Sammy Meeks and Mobile's Andy Frazier.

There are other streaks, less noted in the public prints, that make baseball the highly interesting and entertaining game it is.

Charlie Roberts

For instance, the Crackers played 26 games against six of the seven other clubs in the Southern Association, and not a grand-slam home run was hit.

Then, in the span of one week, three games involving the Crackers produced three grand-slam homers, each of which pretty well decided the victory issue.

Eddie Irons' four-run swat for Memphis did in the Crackers, 10-7. Dick Phillips' four-tally swat knocked off Little Rock, 11-5. Buck Riddle's similar feat defeathered the Chicks, 9-3.

Two consecutive Little Rock-Atlanta games produced four batters hit by pitchers, six wild pitches, four passed balls—about the same number of each as 29 previous Cracker games spawned.

The Crackers received one pitching shutout job in 27 games—by Paul Cave—then Bob Hartman and Cave hurled three in the next six, two on the same day at Memphis.

PREDICTION OF WEEK—Dick Phillips, who hit .254 last year, will bat at least .310 this season.

DICK STUART DEPT.—The man with the big bat, reputation and mouth and weak glove was top man in the PCL homerwise and averagewise after 27 games. Ten homers, .376 average. In 14 home games he lashed eight homers and virtually ate free at a restaurant offering a steak dinner for every homer at Derks Field by a Salt Lake City player.

DIAMOND DUST—Gary Bell, 1957 whiff artist for Mobile, authored a four-hitter for San Diego's first home victory. He has fanned 38 in 41 innings and has ERA of less than one a game. Of Cleveland GM Frank Lane's vow that "Bell has a million-dollar arm," the right-hander says, "Yeah, but I wish he'd pay me in that kind of money." . . . Charleston sent Atlantan Larry Osborne to Detroit to have his fractured arm examined. He's not expected to be ready for full-time first base duty until June 1 and his sub, Dolph Camilli Jr., hit only .089 and was benched. . . . Louisville's Jim Pyburn, his hitting streak ended at 12 straight games, went 3 for 21 and his average melted more than 50 points to .308.

Manager Walker Cooper at Indianapolis is hoping the long-ball deficiency will end with addition of Harmon Killebrew, who led the Southern with 29 homers at Chattanooga in '57. . . . Newnanite Don Lassetter provided Rochester's Lynn Lovenguth with his 100th International League victory with a homer, two doubles and a single against Toronto.

George Brunet, ex-Little Rocker, stymied Montreal with a six-hitter, winning for Buffalo, 4-2. . . . Ex-Southern Leaguer Bob Lennon is making an early bid for the International League's triple batting crown. Montral's ace lashed 12 hits in 23 trips in one stretch to go ahead in average, RBI and homers. . . . Connie Ryan's Seattle team hit only one homer in its first 25 games. . . . Moe Thacker ex-New Orleans catcher, returned to the Fort Worth lineup after being out two weeks with an injury. . . . Eric Rodin, ex-Traveler, broke out of an 0-for-19 slump with a triple and single in an 11-4 Corpus Christi victory. Dixie Upright, also ex-Little Rock, won a game for Amarillo in the Western League with a two-run homer in the 11th for the second time recently.

EX-CRACKER DEPT.—Dallas pilot Davey Williams played first base in one game and faced four batters as a pitcher without allowing a hit in another. . . . Georges Maranda stopped Houston on one hit for 7⅔ innings of relief work, got three hits and scored three runs in a 6-3 Austin victory. . . . Chick King hit safely in 11 straight games for Fort Worth before being injured.

Corpus Christi's Mike Lutz, hitting .413, overtook Dick Sinovic (.407) of Austin as Texas League bat leader. . . . Vic Rehm continues among top American Assn. pitchers (3-1 and a 2.70 ERA). But Corky Valentine bailed out Rehm and was hero of a 6-3 victory over Minneapolis. He relieved in the first with none out, allowed three hits in nine innnigs and put Wichita ahead to stay with a two-run homer in the fifth inning.

Fireball Roberts Collects On Tim Flock's Gas Gamble

Billy Carden Finishes 2nd

By RALPH GREGORY

Tim Flock gambled a gallon of gas against a pit stop Sunday and lost when Fireball Roberts charged from behind twice to win Lakewood Speedway's 100-mile convertible stock car race.

Flock, trying to go the distance without refueling, coasted to a frustrating stop just 3½ laps from the finish with a thirsty gas tank and a flying Roberts streaking for his second victory this season on the Lakewood track.

Roberts, driving an Atlanta-owned 1957 Chevrolet, had to survive a near disastrous spinout on the third lap and another delay for gassing up on the 74th lap to grab the NASCAR-sanctioned event before an estimated 6,000 fans.

Roberts' winning time was 1 hour, 14 minutes, 30 seconds, an average of 80.75 MPH which established a new track record for convertibles.

Billy Carden of Marietta finished second in a 1957 Chevrolet; Marvin Panch, driving Lee Petty's 1957 Oldsmobile was third and the Rakestraws—Bennie and Wilbur—completed the top five.

Flock, so close to first, finally finished seventh in his 1957 Mercury.

Roberts, third in a Grand National race at Lakewood earlier and winner of a modified race there last month, picked up $800 as top share of a $4,200 purse.

He earned it, for it took a day's work to win. He started on the pole with a qualifying time of 44.43 seconds and held the lead for two laps with Flock trailing. Roberts spun on the second turn of the third lap, nearly ran off the track into the infield lake and spent the next 35 miles making up lost ground.

He finally got by Flock on the 38th lap and stayed in front until he went to the pits on lap 73 for gas. Flock, who had dropped to third in the meantime, shot back into the lead as No. 2 man Bob Welborn was also forced to the pits.

Roberts' pit stop gave Flock a half-lap lead with 26 to go and he was forced to run down the leader again. He did it on the 96th lap and a lap later Flock's gas was gone.

"I knew it was a gamble," Flock said later. "But it was a chance for first against a seventh-place finish, so I decided to try to go all the way.

"The car wasn't running as well as it did before. It was cutting off in the turns and I figured that was saving enough gas so that I might make it."

Roberts, showing the strain of having to push all the way, was delighted with the performance of the Frank Strickland-owned car.

"It really runs," he said. "But I feel like I've done a day's work. I hit some wet mud that had been thrown in the groove when I spun out. At first I thought I'd have to abandon ship because it felt like the car was going to slide in the lake.

"Then it stalled and I figured I might not be able to get it started again. But by the time I made the pit stop I figured I could catch Tim, even if he didn't give out of gas. And I did. Those last three laps were the only easy ones I had."

Joe Weatherly, one of the pre-race favorites, arrived as scheduled but without a car. He still had a busy afternoon, starting in Buck Brigance's 1958 Ford and eventually taking over for Banjo Matthews in Beau Morgan's 1958 Ford. A broken axle put the Morgan car out of action.

MRS. KING'S A QUEEN IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Special to The Constitution

SPARTANBURG, S.C.—Mrs. Frances King of Atlanta, who already has a badly overcrowded trophy case, collected two more Sunday with a sharpshooting performance in the South Carolina State Trapshoot.

The Georgia women's champion fired a 188x200 to win the South Carolina Women's Open singles, and a 80x100 to take the Class B doubles crown.

She fired a 94x100 to take runner-up honors in the handicap shooting. T. W. (Red) Cecil of the host Spartanburg Gun Club won the handicap with a 95x100. In the Georgia Shoot last month Cecil was runner-up to Mrs. King.

Cecil also fired a 191 for the South Carolina championship, and his 84x100 was good fo rthe doubles honors. Cecil was high overall winner, too.

Maas Cools Tigers, 2-0

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Duke Maas shut out Detroit on two hits Sunday as the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Tigers 2-0 for a sweep of their three game series.

Charlie Maxwell's single in the fifth and Charlie Lau's pinch triple with two out in the ninth were Detroit's only hits. Maas, traded away by Detroit last November, struck out four and maintained perfect control facing only 28 batters.

Willis Looks Out For Chattanooga

His Hits Keep Win Streak Percolating at Eight, 9-6

From Wire Dispatches

Atlanta native Bobby Willis kept Chattanooga's win streak alive Sunday with three singles that lifted the Lookouts over Mobile, 9-6, for their eighth straight triumph.

Elsewhere, little-regarded Little Rock cut Birmingham down another notch, 9-5, and New Orleans divided a double-header with Nashville, 12-8 and 10-2.

Willis, a .259-hitting shortstop, plated four mates as the Lookouts pulled to within one game of the .500 mark at 18-19 after a miserable start. Reliefer Angel Oliva pitched the last five innings to grab the victory, his first.

Once-flashy Phil Regan was the target of the Travelers, and the upstarts from Little Rock bombed the Birmingham ace and Jim Raugh for a 7-0 lead after the first three innings.

Ageless R. C. Otey led the 15-hit Trav attack with three singles. Harry Elliott and Kent Hadley each chipped in with a triple. Bob Schwarzkoff got the victory that enabled the visitors to sweep the three-game series with the Barons.

Fireman Don Bradey saved New Orleans in their 12-8 triumph at Nashville. Bradey, fourth Pelican pitcher, doused the last Vol threat after coming in with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth. He faced only six men the rest of the route.

Altogether, there were 42 hits, 22 walks, 2 hit batsmen and 32 runs recorded in the double-bill at the Dell.

BAKER BATTLES GRIFFIN

Ferguson Faces Favored Blue Jackets

By PAUL ATKINSON

Savannah, dispossesso of seven-times AAA champion Richmond Academy for the 2-AAA title, is the early favorite to win it all in AAA baseball tournament battling opening Monday at Thomaston.

Turp Spear's Blue Jackets open up the tournament in a 1 p.m. duel with Wayman Creel's Northside 3-AAA victors. Creel nominated right-hander John Ferguson (4-0), but Spear was undecided. His choice will be either Joe Smith (6-1) or Don Woeltjen (6-1).

Gene Lewis

Ed Wolf

Tournament play continues into the second round also Monday. Losers come back for a 6:30 p.m. "do-or-die" outing, and the winners follow immediately thereafter.

Schedule for Tuesday is 2 p.m. and 7, with the latter possibly the last game. Should two teams have only one loss after that contest, the decider will go Wednesday at a time as yet undecided.

In a tight tournament schedule such as this, pitching is an all-important commodity. Second-line hurling — or lack of same — often is a decisive factor.

So in that vein, these are the pitchers nominated, with their records, to follow in the second game Monday: Northside, Dick Rositer (6-0); Savannah, either Woeltjen or Smith; Griffin, Jimmy Fordham (4-1); and Baker, Jim Nelson (2-2).

Northside-Savannah opener is expected to evolve into a keen slugging affray. Both teams had bat marks near .300. Chief sticker for Savannah has been third baseman Jimmy Miller, who finished at .435. Northside's big gunners have been brothers Ben and John Ferguson, hitters of .474 and .396 repute; and Robert Madison, .364.

Creel's Tigers particularly like to go for the long ball. They lashed out 19 in 21 games, including eight by Ben Ferguson and a big grand-slam by John Ferguson that toppled Roosevelt, 5-1, for the 3-AAA title.

Savannah also is explosive. The Blue Jackets tamed Groves in a 2-AAA doubleheader, 31-0 and 20-7. That 31-0 donnybrook was mercifully curtailed to five innings.

Neither Griffin nor Baker had any lusty hitting. In fact, Baker won the championship with a very meek .196 bat mark. Rightfielder Rudon Tuck hit .389 for Wolf's Lions, and pitcher Reynolds rapped .381; but, after thtat, the offense was nil.

Catch Bill Shirrah and leftfielder Tommy Gregory have been most impressive for Smith's Eagles. Both hit at .300 figures, and Gene Lewis and Cary Wright were both .275 apiece. Otherwise, the hitting was hardly competent.

Tucker Draws Norman Park In B Tourney

Pairings and times for State Classes B and C baseball tournaments were announced Sunday by Sam Burke, GHSA secretary. Class B tournament is at Thomaston Thursday in a single-elimination affair; Class C tournament follows Friday on a similar basis.

Norman Park and Tucker open the B tournament at 1 p.m. Thursday, and the Jenkins County-Model game goes at 3. Championship game is set for 7 p.m.

The C tournament throws Clay County against Dade County in a 1 p.m. Friday opener; Odum and Social Circle follow at 3. Winners clash at 7 p.m. for the title.

NEW SOUTHERN GOLF QUEEN VISITS HERE
Mary Ann Reynolds (R) Tells Joyce Denson About Victory

Reynolds Perfection Pays Off

Albanyite Thrilled With Southern Win

By BERT PRATHER

What makes a golf champion? Pretty Mary Ann Reynolds may have supplied the answer here Sunday afternoon.

The Albany housewife flew in from Dallas, Texas, where Saturday she whipped Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., in 36-hole finals of Women's Southern Amateur Championship.

Mary Ann was still walking around on a cloud after scoring her greatest victory in a career that dates back only to 1955.

"I still can't believe it is true," said Mrs. Reynolds as she relaxed with her hostess, Joyce Denson of Decatur. "But I'll say it was a wonderful feeling when I closed Mrs. Glick out on the 33rd hole.

"You know, she's the lady who put me out in the first round of the 1956 Southern at Hot Springs, Va. She's a fine competitor. Doesn't make many birds, but she'll shoot those pars at you all day.

"As thrilling as that victory was, I found out one thing though. There's still a lot of shots I don't know how to hit, and I'm going back to Albany and work on them," the long-hitting Radium Country Club star smiled.

Right there we decided why Mary Ann had come so far, so fast. She's always striving to improve. Has a burning desire to seek perfection in a game which none can conquer and few can master.

She's willing to pay the price on the practice tee to be a better golfer, same as Ben Hogan or practically any top flight competitor.

Mary Ann won the Georgia State (for second successive year) and the coveted Southern within the short space of a month.

McAllister, Wells Notch 48 Whiffs

Darkness Catches Tie Game; Valentine Topples Shurbutt

Seldom have so many stayed so long striking out so often.

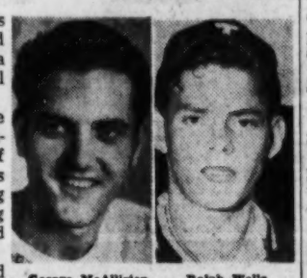

No fewer than 48 swingers fanned as Piedmont Park and Tucker Merchants toiled to a 4-4 draw in amateur baseball Sunday.

Long after the cows had come home and been milked right-hander George McAllister of Piedmont and lefty Ralph Wells of Tucker continued throwing that third strike past opposing troops. Darkness finally halted the "whifathon."

McAllister struck out 29 and Wells 19. Both of the old pros walked only four.

The deadlock left Piedmont Park atop the Eastern circuit with a 4-0 record, and Tucker Merchants follow closely at 4-1.

Hoyt Scott, Wayne Lisle and Paul Mauldin helped back Sam Maddox' five-hit tossing with a 17-gun salute as Valentine Motors handed Shurbutt Service its first Peach State loss, 11-2. Turin clipped Fold's Service, 6-4, to share first with Shurbutt's.

George McAllister — Ralph Wells

Simmon's Service lengthened its Northern lead with a 14-4 shelling of Duluth. Right-hander Pick Whaley, the 6-9 strikeout artist, fanned 17 Duluthmen and walked but one.

Welcome All's defending Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation champs absorbed 11-2 and 10-2 shellacking from the Lakewood Cards. Donald Harp went 4-for-4, including a homer, for the Cards in the opener. Pitcher Billy Kent contributed two singles to his own cause in the nightcap.

James Fans 19 For 4-3 Victory

Right-hander Bill James struck out 19 batters Sunday as McDonough launched its DeKalb League amateur baseball season with a 4-3 victory over Brookhaven. Loser James Cole whiffed 14.

Joe DeFoor's two-hit twirling and his mates' 14-hit assault pushed Decatur past Pleasantdale, 10-0.

Red-Hot Six Irons Club Pair of Aces

By Bert Prather

Six irons proved to be magic wands in the hands of a pair of Atlanta golfers the past weekend.

Jack King used one to make a hole-in-one on Gordon Morris' College Park course Sunday afternoon while playing in a three-some with Jeff Wallis and J. C. Wheeler.

Bert Prather

It came on No. 6 hole, which has not yielded an ace since June 1944. Yes, you guessed it—it was King then.

M. A. (Mac) Carter waved his six iron at the little white pellet on the 173-yard 11th hole on East Lake's No. 1 course Saturday and, with partners H. V. Almond, R. C. Rau and J. L. Garton, stood there flabbergasted as the "missile" hit target.

The State Junior tournament, sponsored by the Jaycees, has been scheduled for Thomasville CC (July 16-20), same dates of Georgia State Amateur at Athens according to State Golf Assn. prexy Jennings B. Gordon of Rome.

Since the men's State dates were announced last July, it would seem the Thomasville Jaycees could please a lot of folks around the state by changing the Junior dates to the preceding week in July.

The juniors should not be deprived of playing in either tournament, but as matters now stand they will.

CHIP SHOTS: When Virginia Leebern stepped up to get her trophy for winning second flight honors in recent Columbus Country Club championship they also handed her the trophy presented each year to the most improved player. And was she thrilled. Sally Molloy retained her championship in the same tournament and Betty Starbuck captured first flight silver. . . . Howard Peevy, one of the cogs behind Atlanta's livewire Senior Golf Assn., toured Bobby Jones course in 37-43—81 last Wednesday, his best score to date. Dr. Ed Weitz and Tom West were Howard's playing partners. . . . Capital City Ladies launch their club tournament Monday. . . . Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Joe Timberlake, prexy and TC of Idle Hour CC Women's Golf Assn., are looking for a big field for their one-day invitational Tuesday.

Although it wasn't publicized too much at the time, Frances Young of Atlanta and Betty Starbuck, Columbus, received a prize following mixed foursome play in recent State Women's championship at Albany for "puting out the most effort and getting least results." . . . Mrs. Chick Stevens, Beth Reads, Mary Cail, Jan Carnes, Kathleen Smith, Marge Foss, Gertie Black, Millie Read and Helen McDougal packed off prizes in last week's Mid Georgia GA tourney at Meadowbrooks CC. . . . Tommy Barnes and big Julian Foster downed Judge Charlie Murphy and Bill Purmort 2-up to gain finals of East Lake's club 4-ball tourney Sunday. . . . Atlanta's champion acemaker, Clyde Spinks, posted a 79 on E. L. No. 2 course. Used only 26 putts. H. L. Creecy's 78 is his best score yet. Made it on E. Lake No. 1. And now comes S. R. Heath, an E. L. 14 handicapper, with a one-under-par 70.

Bernard Duffy's 86, Quentin Bittle's 77 and John Adamson Jr.'s 92 represents career lows for them at Peachtree GC, reports pro Jack Sargent. PGC bogey prize was split by Bob Harlin, Joe Morris and Larry Howard. . . . The State Golf Assn. now has 61 member clubs, which is an increase of 40 per cent over last year. Some of the strangest golf in Atlanta each year is played in the "Cabbage Open" out at Charlie Edwards' West End GC. The Produce Row boys will gather there Monday for this annual tournament.

Smith Second At Wilkesboro

Cottier Clips Chicks

Sammy Meeks pushed one run home. Earley took over from Slack and walked Ebba St. Claire, loading the bases.

He almost bailed out of trouble when DeMerit hit into a double play, even though Phillips scored the run that left the Chicks in front only 8-7.

Bob Montag, who ran for Meeks, occupied third, though. And while Hartsfield was batting, Earley uncorked a wild pitch that let Montag romp across with the tying marker.

Ironically, the Crackers didn't get a man to first base in the tenth and 11th innings, while Memphis made serious threats in each frame.

In the tenth with one out, Al Moran singled off Jack O'Donnell, who had pinch-hit for reliefer Jim Umbricht in the eighth. Earley sacrificed Moran to second and Dick McCarthy walked.

Shep Frazier whaled a line drive that looked like a sure hit but shortstop Phillips made a sensational diving snag on his second base side, ending the inning.

In the 11th, Howell led off with a single off Terry Fox and went to second when Montag booted the ball in right. Howell moved to third after the catch of Gip Dickins' outfield fly. But a squeeze play attempt backfired into a double play. Dipippo bunted the ball in the air, Phillips grabbed it, dashed over and stepped on third for an unasisted double play.

A fifth straight Atlanta triumph seemed remote after the first inning when Cottier made the bobble he was to atone for more than 3 hours later.

Atlantan Johnny Marion brings his red-hot Chattanooga club into town, riding an eight-game winning streak, for the opening of a four-game series at 7:45 Monday night. Billy DuFour (3-1) will hurl for the Lookouts. Buddy Bates will start Paul Cave (4-2) for the second straight time as the Crackers seek to win their sixth straight series.

MEMPHIS (AP) — Money player Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., buckled down to a pressurized 5-under-par final round Sunday to win the $20,000 Memphis Invitational Golf Tournament.

The Texas pro fired a 65 over the sunsoaked 2,700-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course. His final card: 69-65-68-65—267.

DON'T GUESS WHO'S TALKING
Follow conversations easily with the
NEW RADIOEAR EYEGLASS HEARING AID

Do you have trouble following the conversation in meetings or social gatherings, when several people are talking at once? Do you have to watch to see who is talking, because you have trouble telling the direction of sounds? Then you have a common symptom of hearing loss.

The answer is not an ordinary hearing aid, but one that lets you hear with both ears, as nature intended.

Both ears! If you immediately visualize a bulky, conspicuous gadget, look at the picture on the left. Each side of those slim, handsome eyeglasses contains a separate, independent Radioear STEREO Hearing Aid. They were designed to help people with exactly the kind of hearing loss described here. Any style of eyeglass frames can be worn, and women can select their choice of decorative or ornamented frames.*

UNRETOUCHED photo shows how slim an eyeglass hearing aid can be. Yet slim as the temples are each can contain a separate, powerful, high fidelity hearing aid—the Radioear STEREO. This is exactly what is needed by people who have trouble following the conversation when several people are talking at once.

It is another chapter in the phenomenal growth the region has enjoyed for many years . . . a growth attributed by many to the "indomitable courage and push of its people." Consider today the industrial angle alone and you see a Southeast making greater strides than any other area in the nation. Georgia itself boasts over 7,000 manufacturing plants, making 14,000 different products used 'round the world. And more importantly, these plants provide employment for 330,000 of our people. Each month brings new plants and products to the Southeast, strong promise of good new days.

Italian Princess Brings Ancient Beauty Secrets

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER

It isn't the ordinary sequence when cosmetics inspire fashion creations, but it is possible for that oddity to occur.

It has happened in Italy. And the guiding genius behind these fashion-inspiring cosmetics is in Atlanta now to introduce her distinctive line and to show some of the fashions which it has brought from imaginative Italian designers.

She is Princess Marcella Borghese, a descendant of an ancient noble Italian family, and she is making her first venture into the business world.

SECRET FORMULA

It's a venture that grew out of her first trip to America in October, 1955, when she decided to translate for the American woman secret beauty formulas that have been the pride of the famous Borghese beauties since the early Renaissance.

With an air of elegance that is truly continental, she is presenting internationally a lipstick and nail enamel that offers eight magnetic shades which she likens to the color extravaganza of a Mediterranean sunset.

She said she consented to enter the business field after the urging of many friends on both sides of the Atlantic, and that her personal chemist had developed these new beauty formulas from family "beauty recipes."

FIRST

Thus, hers becomes the first line of Italian beauty preparations to be made available to women throughout the world. Besides the lipstick and nail enamel, the line consists of lipstick refills, base coat, top coat and frosted enamel.

Inspired by her vermilion sapphire is an all-wool "at ease" costume from the workshops of Mirsa of Milan. It's a three-way blend of knit wear. The pullover is hip-length in sapphire, white and gray. The hip-length cardigan has low patch pockets. The slacks are flat knit.

Misty pink inspired designer Eleanora Garnett to create a full-length peau de soie cape and a gold and silver jeweled white chiffon gown for fabulous nights.

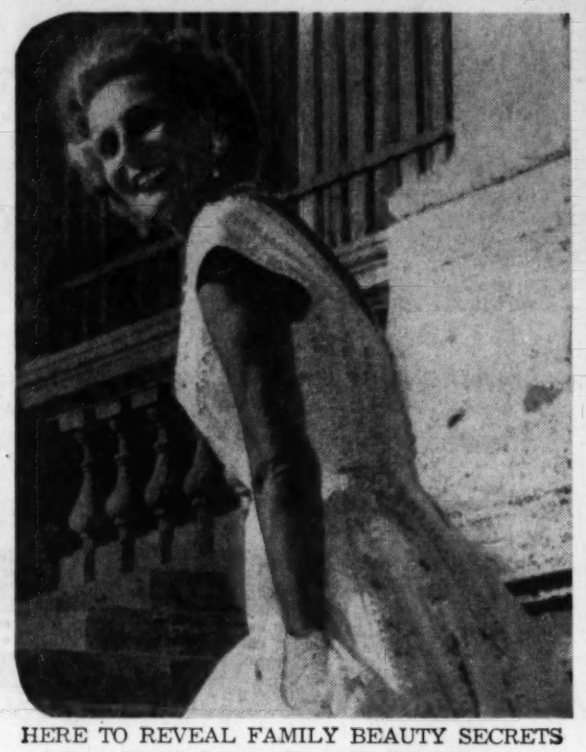

SOCIETY, CHARITY

From the Middle Ages until the present, the Borghese family have been patrons of the arts. The princess has been active for years in Italian society and charitable work, is an expert horsewoman, still plays tennis, and takes in an occasional round of golf. Laughingly, she will not reveal her golf score.

She is the mother of twin sons, 18. The boys attend the University of Rome—Francesco is studying to be a lawyer, Livio to be an architect. Blonde, with electric dark eyes and the easy grace of a sportswoman, she could pass for their sister.

Princess Borghese also has the title of Duchess of Bomarzo and she lives with her family in the quaint, quiet Via San Teodora. Her favorite American city at the moment is New York, which she knows well. This is her first visit to Atlanta and she expects to find it a favorite, too, after she gets more acquainted with it.

Princess Borghese's line is available here. For shopping information call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

There's an Inspiring Teacher Behind Blakely's FHA Leaders

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

A teacher stands solidly behind every student award winner.

Mrs. Betty Houston — home economics teacher at Blakely High School — has inspired an amazing number of girls to earn state and national honors in homemaking.

Number one notable of her prize pupils is Priscilla Jones, last year's All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. And for once, the teacher shared the student's honors in this national contest, sponsored four years by Betty Crocker and General Mills.

TOURED COUNTRY

Shapely Mrs. Houston and her protege spent three weeks touring the country. The teacher's husband, Charlie L. Houston, waited patiently at home. Declared Mrs. Houston with a flashing, dimpled smile, "He was so thrilled. Charlie's real interested in my work."

But Mrs. Houston's trip last year is old news now. She's working with a new crop of young homemakers who are showing their talents. Priscilla Marshall is the new state vice president of Future Homemakers of America.

And in the 11 years that Mrs. Houston has taught at Blakely, four students have held state and national offices in FHA. Her girls also have won a total of $7,000 in college scholarships for their homemaking abilities. One former student, Marilyn Middleton, now is teaching home economics in Marietta.

GOOD TRAINING

The pretty teacher doesn't know whether her students hold some sort of honors record among state high schools. As she explained, "Any well-rounded homemaking program trains a girl in such a way that she would be able to do well in contests."

A high school course in this field, she added, covers every aspect of a homemaker's life. Although cooking and sewing form an important part of a girl's training, she also must be informed in other areas — child care, home furnishings, money management, good grooming, family relationships, flower arranging, caring for the sick.

Mrs. Houston paid tribute to her small south Georgia town, too. "Our community understands the FHA and homemaking program. The residents take an interest in it, and I believe they feel it is offering opportunities to our young people."

SKIPPED TWO GRADES

For all her long years of teaching, Mrs. Houston looks barely older than her students. "I'm told this is harmful," her brown eyes smiled, "but I skipped two grades in elementary school." In 1947 she graduated from Tift College when she was 18 years old.

She likes teaching, she said, likes to work with young people. "Teaching homemaking combines well with being a homemaker," she added. "In my own home I gain so many experiences that add to my teaching, and teaching keeps me on my toes to improve my work at home." The more I've done, the more I know that the combination has been the right choice for me."

The native of Culloden met her husband when she visited her roommate in Blakely during college days. The Houstons have been married 10 years. The charming wife said fervently, "If Charlie didn't work with me, didn't cooperate, I couldn't be a good teacher and homemaker. He does so many things."

Empire Chemise In Fashion News

As the fashion cycle of the barely fitted silhouette becomes more firmly established, new interpretations of its essential line appear almost daily.

The great Balenciaga, who really made the first barely fitted silhouette several years ago, developed some charming new versions in his summer collection. Newest and youngest, I think, are those with a well-defined high waistline that looks almost Empire in period but has a soft, modern chemise body.

This has been translated here chiefly in black silk crepe or chiffon late day dresses — sometimes with its hemline slightly caught in at the bottom with a bow.

Two-Thirds Of a Dream

There was a lot of mail in the box when I got back from Macon and it took me a little time to get to the one beginning, "All my life I have wanted to write."

Since it was two pages of single-space typing I slid it to the bottom of the stack to be finished later. And now I'm sorry I waited, for if there ever was a little personal vignette with an O. Henry twist, it's this one!

Like O. Henry and the writer of this letter, Mrs. Georgia Hills of 2558 McAfee Rd., Decatur, I'll try to save the punch in this to the last. And I hope you'll go along with us because it may be you're the one with exactly the bit of information, the single clue needed to save the day.

Mrs. Hills said she wanted to write, but that's not half of the story. She did write . . . and write . . . and write!

Back in the late '80s and '90s she contributed poetry to Frank L. Stanton's column in The Constitution. About 1890 she won first prize for a Christmas story in The Journal. She was beginning to feel that writing might be her life's work when her husband became an invalid and failed in business and she had to pick up and tote the load of a family of eight children.

"I'll just have to wait till I get old to write," she comforted herself as the years went by.

The years went by and Mrs. Hills was as busy as only the mother of eight children can be, but all along when she could dig out a minute for herself she worked on a book she had in mind about a biblical character—Onesimus, the slave who was supposed to have run away from his master and was returned with a letter from Paul, which is among his epistles in the New Testament.

She haunted libraries and read everything she could get her hands on and "at last at the age of 57 I had to have an operation which for a time freed me from life's burdens and I started my book!"

The struggle with that manuscript is bloody and bitter business of pouring out words, thousands of words . . . and cutting them to please an editor or an agent. Mrs. Hills wrote that book and rewrote it four times. She dealt with sympathetic and interested editors and she dealt with shysters. She had friends in the editing and publishing business and they read and advised and saw her through cuts and revisions.

Three years ago she suffered a broken hip. Now at the age of 85 she is a virtual shut-in. But last September she got the manuscript of her novel back from one more journey and decided to tackle it again—"if the Lord let me live to do it."

The first of April she had revised and rewritten two thirds of the book and had it ready to send off. Her daughter, Kathryn Bobo, secretary to Albert Love at Foote & Davies, took as much as was finished home with her to read it. Mrs. Hills pushed ahead, determined to get the rest in shape to enter in Harper's novel contest, which closes June 1.

This week her daughter came to see her and Mrs. Hills, understandably keyed up over being on the last lap of her life's project, couldn't wait to hear what Kathryn thought.

"What she told me when she came in to see me nearly caused me to have a stroke," Mrs. Hills wrote me. "She had not read a word of the book. Somehow it was lost or stolen from her car and she had not been able to find a trace of it!"

Now mother and daughter and friends are desperately trying to recopy the manuscripts from carbons, but the carbons are "all mixed up," Mrs. Hills said, and the task of straightening them out in the next two weeks is heartbreaking.

Has anybody seen a box of nearly 500 pages of manuscript kicking around anywhere? If the title page is there it will read, "The Lighting of the Lamp." Two thirds of a book, two thirds of a lifelong dream . . . what good are they to somebody else? If you have a clue, please call Mrs. Hills or Mrs. Bobo.

Son Wants To Attend Church of His Choice

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I have a very pressing problem which I wish you would try to answer as soon as possible. I am a 17-year-old boy. During the past two and a half years I have experienced various doubts about my religious teachings.

I have developed a religious philosophy which is no longer satisfied by my former faith.

My mother, however, insists that I am still a member of her church and that it is some "silly and obstinate notion," recently acquired, which makes me feel that I must change churches. She literally tries to force me to attend church with her every Sunday. If I refuse, she becomes extremely upset, saying that "with all she does for me the least I can do is to go to church with her." But is this fair?

About two years ago I received a letter from a mother describing a situation that was almost identical with yours, except that her son was younger; After checking them carefully I found that 98 per cent of the writers believed the boy had the right to attend the church of his choice provided his was a sincere belief that the church afforded more spiritual inspiration for him and was not just a passing "notion". One bit of advice I can offer is that you talk with the clergymen of both churches before making a final decision.

Egrets Welcome Guests at Palace

By YOLANDE GWIN

Atlantans returning from trips to all sections of the globe bring back some astonishing stories.

Take Mr. and Mrs. William Fawcett, for instance. They have just returned from a tour of the Caribbean area. And Mrs. Fawcett announced the other day that they went to one reception and were received by egrets.

"Egrets, you know, are tall, slim birds," said Mrs. Fawcett. "We were members of a party attending a reception given by President Ernesto de la Guardia of Panama at the President's Palace.

SUNKEN FOUNTAIN

"The entrance hall had a huge sunken fountain in the marble floor. Wandering all around like a welcoming committee were the egrets.

"The actual reception was held in the gold room. The large columns around the room were mother-of-pearl and perfectly beautiful. Oil paintings of cabinet members encircled the walls at the ceiling heights."

Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett were members of the Pan-American Commission's eighth annual goodwill tour of Central and South America.

ONE GARDEN CLUB

While in Barranquilla, Colombia, Mrs. Fawcett said she met Mr. and Mrs. Elberto Gonzalez Rubio. Mrs. Rubio is the former Dorothy Harrison, daughter of Mrs. John M. Harrison of Atlanta. Mr. Rubio is the secretary of public works in Barranquilla.

Garden club circles will be interested to know that there is only one club in this city of some 400,000 people. Mrs. Fawcett met the president, Mrs. Ignacio Blanco.

According to the Atlantan, the majority of flowers are planted in pots and arranged on patios, and along garden paths. The flowers, especially the amaryllis and the pink antirrhinum, were outstandingly beautiful.

MRS. ROBERT ALLEIN has returned from Chattanooga where she not only had a whirl of party going, but also heard some of the latest plans for the 1958 Cotton Ball.

The ball, to be held in late August, will be one of the largest ever held with belles and beaux from throughout the South attending.

"For the first time in the history of the annual balls there will be two sets of twins attending," said Mrs. Allein, who will be the official chaperone for the Atlanta girls. Both sets are from Atlanta, too. They are Margaret and Winifred Storey, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Storey, and Linton Hopkins Jr. and Mary, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linton Hopkins.

La Vista Club Plans Meeting

La Vista Junior Woman's Club will meet Monday, May 19, at 8 p.m. in the clubhouse. A Georgia historical program will be presented.

Mrs. Gene Smith, Mrs. R. H. Lassiter and Mrs. A. S. Eberhart Jr. will be hostesses.

Milton Avenue School PTA will hold a Mardi Gras carnival and fish fry on Saturday, May 17, from 2 to 8 p.m. Square dancing will be held at 6 p.m.

School to Stop Diplomas For Racial Incidents

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Seniors at the integrated Roanoke Catholic High School were warned today that the instigators of any further racial incidents at the school will be denied their diplomas at graduation.

The warning came in a statement issued by the policy-making board of the school, from which the lone Negro senior was withdrawn last Friday after reportedly being shoved into his seat by another student.

The alleged shoving incident followed announcement of cancellation of the annual senior banquet and dance. The expected presence of both white and Negro students at the affair led to the cancellation.

Simultaneously with the withdrawal of Vernon Dudley, 17, from the high school by his parents, four of his brothers and sisters were withdrawn by their parents from another Catholic school nearby, St. Andrews.

The statement by Msgr. J. L. Flaherty, tthe Very Rev. John S. Igle and the Rev. Robert F. Beattie, members of the policy-making board for the high school, came as reports grew that the Negro children would return to school Monday.

The statement said in part: "If, during the next two weeks, any senior betrays by his conduct that he has not absorbed the fundamentals of Christ-like living, he shall be given the opportunity of spending another year at the high school before being considered eligible for graduation."

BIG WINNER—TURIN, Italy—Felice Albereni, 64, who says he never heard of a calorie count, easily won Italy's fat man contest. He tipped the scales at 436 pounds. The contest is held annually at Caveur, about 25 miles from Turin.

Captain, Ship Reach Port, Coffee Cargo Still Burning

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—A captain who refused to abandon his burning ship rode into port under tow Sunday with 50 tons of coffee still smouldering in the hold 24 hours after his Danish freighter was swept by fire.

Two other officers also were aboard the 4,800 ton Olivia Winthers when tugboats brought her in to the Alabama state docks.

The rest of the 31-man crew and the chief engineer's wife, who worked as ship's stewardess, abandoned ship on orders of Capt. V. V. Neilsen soon after the fire broke out. They were picked up by a freighter and taken to the Louisiana port of Ostrica.

Two Coast Guard vessels helped fight the blaze 60 miles off Mobile. Neilsen and the two officers helped confine the blaze to the stern section. Then they stayed aboard for the tow to port.

No one was killed and the few injuries were described as slight.

The fire broke out about dawn Saturday. It spread to the superstructure and sent smoke billowing through the ship.

The tugboat Captain Wilson of Mobile took the burning ship under tow and brought her into the shelter of Mobile Bay. Tons of water were pumped into the ship while another tugboat held her fast.

With the flames extinguished but 50 tons of coffee still smouldering, the ship then was brought in for a damage survey and repairs.

Soviet Grain Lags

MOSCOW (UP) — The Communist Party newspaper Pravda disclosed Sunday that Soviet farmers were far behind in their spring grain sowing because of the late arrival of warm weather in many parts of Russia. Pravda said collective and state farms had sown a total of 70,500,000 hectares (about 174,000,000 acres) by May 15—a little more than half the acreage that should have been planted by then.

U.S. Studies Bases Shift In Europe

French Crisis Causes Concern

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — United States military officials, deeply concerned by developments in France, are reconsidering proposals to relocate important military installations in Europe. Among major proposals made some time ago is one that would divert lines of communication from France to Germany, by shifting military shipping from French to German ports.

Another would provide for rebuilding in the low countries and Germany the oil pipe lines and electronics communications that are now strung across France as logistics support for North Atlantic Treaty forces.

Authoritative sources also disclosed that U.S.-French negotiations for the establishment of intermediate range ballistic missile bases in France have been stalled since the fall of the government of former premier Felix Gaillard on April 16.

These negotiations have been conducted under the auspices of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's supreme headquarters, under Gen. Lauris V. Norstad.

Technical meetings have taken place between French officials and representatives of Gen. Norstad. The meetings have dealt with the number of bases required by NATO, the location of the bases and their size in terms of personnel and real estate.

However, the political and strategic aspect of the negotiations were never begun. The fall of the Gaillard regime prevented a start in the final drafting of the French-U.S. agreement, and there is no indication now when such a start can be made.

Thus far the United States has concluded an agreement for I.R.B.M. bases only with Britain.

The I.R.B.M. agreement with France has been considered in some respects even more significant than the one with Britain in that it was to have set a precedent for arrangements with other countries in continental Europe, such as Greece, Italy and Turkey.

The U.S.-British agreement is purely bilateral, whereas the agreement with France was to be arranged by NATO.

Man Must Improve or Die, Graham Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham warned Sunday night that "we must change our ways or we can expect the world as we know it to come to an end."

He also told a Cow Palace crowd of 12,000 that in these last "days of grace," God's judgment still can be avoided.

The Bible, Graham said, notes that when the conditions that were present in Noah's time are present again, God will judge the world. These conditions, five in number, are here now, he said. He listed them as:

"Abuse of marriage, the prevalence of violence, the neglect of spiritual influences, the inspection of the world by God and the warning by God of the coming judgment."

However, he said, "we are living in the days of grace in which God says 'You can be saved' by taking the one road to forgiveness and salvation and having faith in Christ."

"If you don't believe the Bible," he added, "then listen to the scientists. They say the world is living in perpetual fear, World War III is inevitable and the world is on the brink of self-destruction."

He told the crowd there was "never a more convenient time than now to make your decision for Christ."

Some 671 stepped forward at his invitation, bringing the total to more than 11,500 for the three weeks of Graham's San Francisco crusade.

Countess To Appear On 'Today'

PAUL JONES' PICK OF THE DAY — Today in Georgia, a bright eye-opener which is presented five days a week on Channel 2, will do something a little different today.

Ray Moore and Ruth Kent, who join Taylor Lumpkin in putting this show together each day, will stage a high-fashion show featuring Italian silks and gowns.

What is different about that? Simply that Princess Borganza of Italy is going to do the commentary and she doesn't speak any English. I am sure Ray knows enough Italian to fill you in on what's happening or maybe Ruth will have an Italian-English textbook which will help. At any rate, it will be interesting.

Tune them in at 8:55 a.m.

As I See It

Some Old Favorites Coming Back on TV

By PAUL JONES

If you had your choice of which old shows you'd like to see returned to the networks would the Jackie Gleason and Robert Montgomery Presents programs top your list of "gone but not forgotten" hits?

A survey conducted by Television Age, a TV trade paper, turned up some interesting disclosures along that line.

Jones

It shows, in fact, that Gleason and Montgomery are the most popular of the personalities now in the TV "pasture."

It reveals some other interesting things, too. For instance, it develops that lots of people still like Sam Levenson. And I had almost forgotten that he ever had a TV show.

Meet Millie, the survey tells us, is sixth among the shows at which the televiewers would like to get another peek.

The popularity of the Montgomery show is unusual in view of the declining popularity of the drama or anthology series, which unlike the western had no continuity or character identification.

Obviously, Montgomery's personality had something to do with the immense popularity of his progam or either the stories which were slanted toward women audiences with their sentimental plots were just what the TViewers wanted.

ABSENCE HAS MADE the heart grow fonder for Herb Shriner and Two for the Money, which, I think, still is a lot better than some of the foolish quiz shows we have on TV now.

The comeback of the comedians, apparently, is not a figment of some publicity man's imagination either.

Gleason's big showing and the appearance of Red Buttons, Levenson, Milton Berle, Wally Cox and Shriner among the most-missed shows indicates that the people want comedy — in big doses.

Suspense and Stop the Music are two other shows for which the televiewing audience has fond memories. Arthur Godfrey made the list with his "Friends" show. Others placing in the ballots are: Noah's Ark, Wire Service, Danger, 20 Questions and Break the Bank.

I think it is highly significant that, other than the Berle show, the only program which made the list and which is being returned is Noah's Ark. And, Noah's Ark barely got on the list of 16 programs.

* * *

OF THE SHOWS LISTED I would name only a few that I'd like to see back on TV.

I definitely would list Noah's Ark, one of the most appealing and diverting stories about animals to be presented on TV. I am happy that Berle is coming back and I certainly would like to see Jackie Gleason come up to the plate for a few more swings.

I always found Godfrey's "Friends" entertaining, although I never found Mr. Godfrey, himself, irresistible. I would like to see Shriner's Two for the Money back and I think Red Buttons deserves a better opportunity than he got before.

Frankly, I haven't missed Robert Montgomery and I don't care if Break the Bank and Stop the Music ever are heard from again.

How about you?

* * *

JAKE LEVY, of Atlanta, writes: "Today (May 15) I noticed you asked for suggestions of synonyms for "bang-up" and "block - buster." May I suggest the following ones:

Jackie Gleason

"For bang-up why not use the word 'solid' and for 'block buster' why not use the word 'terrific.'"

(Ed Note: In checking out those words in Webster's Dictionary, I find that 'terrific' while commonly used by showmen, especially in circusdom, does not indicate excellence. Webster says: Terrific: Exciting great fear or dread; terrible; appalling; such as a terrific explosion. Maybe 'terrific' does apply to some of the shows on TV, at that.)

New Program For Ball Fans Starts June 1

By VAL ADAMS
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—A baseball program offering news, trends, special features and demonstrations of playing techniques will make its debut June 1 over ABC.

The Baseball Corner will be presented each Sunday from 9 to 9:30 p.m. Its host will be Buddy Blattner, former major league baseball player and currently a sports commentator.

The network said many major league stars would appear on the program during the summer. The series will originate in Chicago under the sponsorship of General Mills, Inc.

The sponsor's commercials on the show will be handled by the Rev. Bob Richards, who twice won the Olympic pole-vaulting championship. The former University of Illinois athlete is director of the Wheaties Sports Federation, which was established by General Mills for the announced purpose of encouraging sports participation among youngsters.

Atl. Gas Adds Gas Fired Heat Pump to Line

Now Atlanta Gas Light Company brings to Georgia homeowners the ultra-modern Arkla Servel Sun Valley gas-fired heat pump. The all-year air conditioner that cools or heats. The tried and proven single unit system for the home has been perfected after years of testing by the manufacturer, the American Gas Association and Atlanta Gas Light Company.

The performance of the Sun Valley is truly magic yet it is as simple to operate and as dependable as an automatic gas furnace. Water is the refrigerant and a gas flame supplies the heat to actuate the absorption unit to provide both cooling in summer and heating in winter.

The hermetically sealed unit has no moving parts. This simplicity means years of trouble-free performance, long sought by homeowners.

The fact that it is even less expensive in most of Georgia to cool your home with gas in summer than to heat it in winter is surprising to most homeowners, according to gas company engineers.

The gas operated Sun Valley air conditioner maintains full efficiency at peak loads during the cooling and heating seasons without auxiliary assistance! When neither cooling nor heating is required, cleaned and filtered air may be circulated through the house.

Since a low cost fuel energizes the Sun Valley unit, only normal insulation found in present day standard construction need be installed. The packaged unit requires no elaborate plans and needs just a few square feet of space for installation. With no moving parts to wear or cause loss of efficiency the gas operated unit is much quieter and free from vibration. This allows great flexibility as to location.

The magic of cooling with gas now being brought to the home has long been established where cost of operating larger units has been important. Regardless of the size of the job, it can be done cheaper with gas. This fact has been proven by the gas air conditioner units at the Tom Huston Peanut Company in Columbus, the state's big new Eugene Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta, Emory University Hospital, Eastman Kodak, Paces Ferry Towers, the Biltmore Hotel, the Belvedere Motel and the Howell House in Atlanta; just to name a few. Atlanta Gas Light Company will provide supervision over the installation of the Sun Valley to insure the high quality installation the unit deserves.

In addition to the Arkla Servel Sun Valley, gas air conditioner units are available from Carrier, York, Ready Power, and many steam driven turbine compressor manufacturers.

It is no longer necessary to invest in two separate units. The Arkla Servel Sun Valley gas fired heat pump, with so many additional features, offers both cooling and heating comfort. Along with competitive price, it also has a lower operating cost and less maintenance.

The Sun Valley air conditioner may be purchased through your Atlanta Gas Light Company, your dealer or builder and will be serviced by your Atlanta Gas Light Company. The refrigeration unit carries a five-year warranty.

For additional information on the year-round gas home air conditioner, visit your Atlanta Gas Light Company or phone the downtown office at JAckson 2-8051.

MAGIC COOLING—F. R. Little, Atlanta Gas Light Company air conditioning engineer (left), shows the Arkla Servel Sun Valley gas-fired heat pump to an interested spectator.

Lady — Your Sofa Is Showing! The Answer? Reupholster!

Too few Atlanta homemakers know about the firm that has for years been restoring living room furniture to stunning new beauty — Southern Upholsterers.

In the huge, modern workrooms you would see the first step of the expert reupholstering process —the furniture stripped bare of worn, soiled coverings, and the old lumpy filling material removed, to be destroyed.

Now a careful inspection of frame and joints — expert strengthening, reinforcing, reglu-ing. Then, a special method of supporting webbing and springs with strong steel bands. All springs are reset and retied with imported Italian hemp, guaranteeing better-than-new risilient comfort. Fine, fluffy, new cotton filling is added—and springy filling for extra-soft comfort.

All exposed wood parts are refinished to gleaming new elegance. The furniture is now ready for a custom-fitted cover.

Southern Upholsterers' luxurious samples — amazingly low priced — include rich tapestries . . . elegant damasks . . . newest textured modern fabrics . . . leather-like plastics . . . soft, sturdy friezes . . . deep-pile velvets. And the color choice is absolutely dizzying.

When a prospective customer telephones Southern Upholsterers she makes a date for a free consultation in her home with a decorator-trained sales representative. He helps her select colors and fabrics which would look best with the rest of furnishings. Picp-up and delivery service are also free.

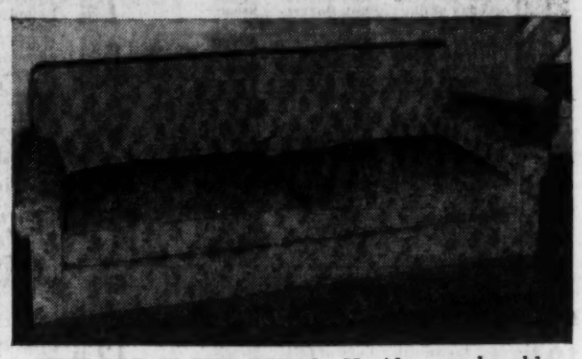

Another unusual and money-saving feature is the new seat cushions for every piece of furniture reupholstered in the plant are manufactured on the spot. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, these are even better quality than the original cushions.

Each reupholstering job includes a notarized guarantee. Southern Upholsterers counts over 30,000 Atlanta housewives among its satisfied customers.

HOW BIG IS RECESSION?

550 Quizzers Count Noses of U.S. Jobless

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 550 quizmasters will fan over the nation this week in a dead-serious parlor game that will produce headlines in June.

The inquisitive callers will be Census Bureau interviewers whose monthly penciled-in answers determine the government's employment - unemployment statistics.

"What were you doing most of last week?" they will ask in 35,000 households in 330 farm and city areas from coast to coast.

The answers, processed through an electronic brain by census officials, give economists one of the key indicators to the depth of the business recession.

JOBS CLIMB

Last month the detailed interviews resulted in an announcement that unemployment had dropped slightly to 5,120,000 while the number of jobs climbed to 62,907,000.

The survey has been made monthly since 1942 after widely conflicting estimates of unemployment were made in the depression era of the 1930's.

Since then the survey has been revised periodically in an effort to make it more accurate. Census officials concede that the key to accuracy is the interviewer — usually a housewife or student working part-time — and the way he or she asks questions.

CLASSIFY SUBJECTS

Partly because of these efforts and partly because the scientifically selected sample was enlarged recently, former critics of the figures are less outspoken now.

After the first question on activity in the preceding week, the interviewers classify the subject into one of three categories: employed, unemployed or out of the labor force.

The employed are those who did any work at all, either as paid employes or in their own business or profession, or those who had jobs but were absent because of illness, vacation or a labor dispute.

DEFINITION

The unemployed are those who did not work at all and were looking for work.

Those not in the labor force include housewives, students, retired workers and persons who are unable to work because of a physical or mental affliction.

The interviewers also take information on hours of work, type of work, age, sex and marital status.

They write with a special type of pencil on cards known as "document - sensing" schedules These cards thus can be converted into punchcards by a machine.

The interviews cover about 80,000 persons over 14 years old. Amazingly enough, the government reported recently that less than 1 per cent of all those asked to volunteer information have refused to do so since the survey started.

The data are kept secret but occasionally leaked to newsmen. The difficulty of keeping the major figures hushed up last month prompted the Commerce Department to release them 10 days ahead of time.

But the government economists warn against placing too much stress on the figures. Rather, they say, the data should be considered along with other economic indicators to get a truly valid picture of how the economy is doing.

"Frankly, sir, I resent the subtle insinuations and innuendos in your statement that I'm a cheap crook!"

Executives Meet To Discuss Economic Future for South

By JIM MONTGOMERY
Constitution Business Editor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—What will it be like to live in the South a quarter of a century from now?

Will the area remain predominantly rural and agricultural?

Or will the current era's industrial growth be so accelerated that the 50,000,000 people expected to be living in the 11-state area in 1983 will develop skills and enjoy incomes equal to or better than the national average?

What kind of prospects are in sight for today's infants, who will in 25 years be rearing their own families?

Some new and reliable answers to these questions are expected to be developed here Monday and Tuesday at a special conference on the economic future of the South—50 Million Consumers — sponsored by Southern Research Institute.

Speakers and guests started pouring in Sunday afternoon. They are, for the most part, men whose daily fare is studying and working to stimulate economic progress.

They know already that in many respects the economic growth of the South has exceeded that of the rest of the nation since World War II.

OTHERS SUGGEST

And while many believe the South's remarkable growth rate will be maintained indefinitely—even accelerated—others suggest that it may have begun to level off.

That's why this meeting has been called, says a Southern Research Institute spokesman.

The general theme will be based on a forecast and analysis of population and income trends, which includes the likelihood of a population of 50,000,000 in 1983, compared with less than 32,000,000 in the last census year (1950).

THESE TRENDS

A battery of high - powered speakers will discuss the implications of these trends for various industries and for agriculture, as well as define the region's special needs in such areas as finance, marketing, technology and planning.

On the Monday agenda are keynoter Philip D. Reed, finance committee chairman, General Electric Co.; Earle L. Rauber, vice president and research director, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta; John A. Sibley, chairman, Trust Company of Georgia; Harllee Branch Jr., president, The Southern Co.; George Champion, president, The Chase Manhattan Bank; J. K. Hodnette, executive vice president, Westinghouse Electric Corp.; Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina; Ben S. Gilmer, president, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commanding general, Army Ordnance Missile Command.

Speaking Tuesday will be Frank J. Soday, vice president, Chemstrand Corp.; Philip W. Moore, president, First Research Corp.; Charles B. Harding, senior partner, Smith, Barney & Co.; Frank H. Sparks, president, Council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc.; Charles F. Kettering, research consultant and director, General Motors Corp.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain, Stops Itching as it Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Ethics Guidebook for Industry Issued As Answer to Criticism from Labor

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—The National Association of Manufacturers issued an ethics guidebook for management Sunday to parallel organized labor's ethical practices codes.

The digest of moral and ethical standards for business was designed to answer criticism from labor that industry had failed to establish yardsticks for corporate integrity. Senate rackets investigators have been studying corruption in union-management relations for 15 months.

A foreword to the NAM pamphlet declares that both industry and labor have "obligations to the general public, to people as individuals and to the nation's economy, which should be recognized and, when necessary, given precedence over their own organizational interests."

The code called for fairness by employers in all dealings with workers, customers, creditors and suppliers. It warned that all forms of monopoly, whether practiced by capital, labor or government, were detrimental to the public interest.

In employer-employe relations, the association stressed protection of the right of workers to join or refuse to join a union. It urged that collective bargaining be conducted in good faith and that both sides endeavor to make the negotiations fruitful.

Employers were advised to use all means in their control to stabilize employment and foster productive efficiency as a means of guaranteeing good wages and steady jobs. The code denounced mass picketing and "monopolistic combinations by labor unions, with or without employer concurrence."

The guidebook contained a synopsis of the ethics codes adopted by the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. These deal with such topics as financial honesty in the conduct of union affairs, internal democracy and the exclusion of rackets from leadership.

The labor codes were presented without editorial comment, but a concluding paragraph in the NAM digest said:

"No codes have yet been adopted by the AFL-CIO which deal with the obligation of a union to society, to employers, to the economy of the nation or to the individuals who constitute its membership. As time goes on, it is to be hoped such codes will be developed."

A spokesman for the association said the standards for industry represented policies that had been part of the NAM credo many years. He made it clear that no thought was being given to setting up any policing machinery to enforce the code.

The AFL-CIO has a permanent ethical practices committee to guard against violations of its moral standards. This committee conducted the hearings that led to ouster last year of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and two other scandal-tainted unions.

Prep Courses Offered

Non-credit college preparatory courses in English and mathematics will be offered this summer to high school graduates by Oglethorpe University. Two-hour classes in each subject will be conducted daily for a six-week period beginning June 16, Oglethorpe officials said.

All Benefit From Going To Church

QUESTION: I read that nearly 100 million Americans belong to some church. Can we assume all of these are Christians? — W. B.

ANSWER: No, I am sure all are not Christians. Yet, who are we to read the thoughts and intents of men's hearts? I am grateful this many people have some interest in the cause of Christ.

It is possible many of them are becoming Christians. Some people grasp truth quickly and receive Christ instantaneously. Others must ponder yielding themselves. In some instances, it is years before a person makes his final entry into the Kingdom of God.

Some go to church out of a sense of duty, some because it seems the proper thing, and others out of love for their heavenly Father. Those who go because of ulterior motives are at least better off than those who do not go. After all, the church is the place where the message of Christ is preached. No person can hear the Bible read, hear sincere prayers said, and mingle with believers without being a better person. If he is not all he should be, he is at least in the place to get his soul repaired. I thank God there is a revival of church attendance.

Baptist Ministers' Union Gets Plea for New Approach

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

Atlanta's Baptist ministers have been urged to seek new approaches in presenting their messages of God.

Spokesmen at a recent weekly meeting of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Union said that a call to the ministry is a call for preparation.

"You cannot afford to go back to the old horse-and-buggy days leadership, if you expect to appeal to your followers today," the Rev. W. H. Huff said.

He added that enlightened people desire enlightened ministers to lead them.

The ABMU is composed of some 200 ministers. At their last meeting the members made a sizable donation to the Carver Bible Institute and pledged further aid for the future.

A class of ministers from Morehouse College will present a program at the Union's next meeting at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday.

U.S. Recognition Of Red China Urged by ADA

WASHINGTON (UP) — Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) Sunday urged "immediate initiation of negotiations" looking toward the eventual U.S. recognition of Communist China.

Winding up their 11th annual convention, the independent political organization supporting liberal causes emphasized that such action would not be "a gesture of moral approval, which the Chinese Communists obviously do not merit."

ADA also emphasized that recognition of Communist China "does not mean abandonment of Nationalist China." It said the United States could recognize both governments and honor its pledge to defend Formosa from Communist aggression.

40 Complete 'College' Study At Penitentiary

Some 40 inmates at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary have received certificates from the "College at Crossroads."

Some 60 prisoners were enrolled in the college level course during the year, Warden Fred Wilkinson said. About a third were released before completion.

Teaching the non-credit courses were instructors from West Georgia College and Oglethorpe University who served without pay, Warden Wilkinson said. The "college" is in its third year.

"These sessions help a fellow mature," Wilkinson commented. "They're very stimulating, I found after attending some myself."

WHILE many companies feel that a man is over the hill at this age, our company is just the opposite. In fact, long years of experience has taught us that if you want a mature, alert, intelligent individual who is interested mainly in an opportunity to work and to stand on his own two feet, find a man 40 or beyond. Doctors Attack Operation on TV

Televising a heart operation brought down on the British Broadcasting Corporation the wrath of the English medical profession. In an editorial titled "Disease Education by BBC" on Feb. 15, the British Medical Journal says that dramatizing disease instead of health was looking backward instead of forward. In addition, the editors thought it "demeaning for doctors and nurses to appear as mummers to provide entertainment for the British public."

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—
Physical fitness in middle life minimizes aches and pains in later life.

Since then, every issue of this journal has carried letters from the articulate English medicos, expressing their opinion of the telecast. The majority condemned the program and thought it too gory for public consumption.

Shortly after the show ended, one family doctor received a call from a woman saying her husband had fainted. When the physician arrived the man apologized and explained: "I can't stand blood and that. I was watching television and don't remember anything more."

A few minutes after the program was over a man appeared in the emergency room of a hospital with a cut over his forehead. He had fainted while watching TV and struck his skull when he fell off a chair.

A woman passed out and fell face first into a blazing fireplace. Another individual "fainted, split his scalp, and was knocked out for some time." His physician kept him in the hospital for 24 hours and remarked, "This man probably won't watch any more programs in that series."

Not all British physicians condemned the telecast. One letter stated that the human mind readily adapts to new ideas from sacks to sputniks and points out that today's precedent is tomorrow's routine.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution,

GOREN on BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ 10 9 5 3 ♥ 4 ♦ K 7 6 5 ♣ J 6 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This is not another raise; it is a mere return to the agreed suit and announces possession of a rather weak raise. If your assist had been a good one, you would at this point be obligated to bid for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 7 ♥ 10 9 7 ♦ A J 5 4 ♣ A Q 9 4
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	2 spades	?

What do you bid?

A.—A white lie is in order in the form of a three spade bid. There is no other adequate call. Holding 15 points, opposite a partner who is strong enough to double, you should seriously contemplate the possibilities of a slam in one of your three suits. The best procedure is to force partner to select the suit, by making a cue bid, even though it involves a little poetic license about your spade holding.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ A J 8 6 ♦ 9 7 5 3 ♣ K Q J 8 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have already indicated possession of a good hand by bidding two clubs and following up with a bid of two spades. Yet partner was unable to take any drastic action, indicating that he has a minimum hand with length in hearts. It appears, therefore, that there cannot be a sound play for game. Discretion calls for a pass, for without a heart in your hand it would be highly unsound to try three no trump, especially without a diamond stopper.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ A ♥ J 2 ♦ K J 5 4 ♣ A K J 10 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 spade	2 diams.	2 spades

What do you bid now?

A.—A cue bid of three spades is clearly indicated. If partner now shows heart control and you check for aces and find that he has two, you will have a reasonable grand slam bid in diamonds. In the circumstances, he should have a good diamond suit, and there should be no difficulty in setting up the clubs for any necessary discards.

Q. 5—You are South, vulnerable, and hold:
♠ Q ♥ K Q 10 6 3 ♦ A 7 4 ♣ Q J 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diam.	1 spade	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	2 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—In view of the fact that partner made a vulnerable overcall, you ought not abandon hope for game without one more try. The suggested call is two no-trump. If partner does not then contract for game you may relax in the knowledge that you have done your full duty.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ K 9 6 ♥ Q 10 4 3 ♦ A J 4 2 ♣ 9 5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	Redoub.	2 diams.
Pass	3 clubs	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Inasmuch as you have already shown an above average hand by redoubling, it is enough for you now to bid just three hearts.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ A 3 ♥ A K J 10 7 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ 5 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 diams.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. It is true that this call represents an underbid of the values held, but there is a reasonably good chance that partner will bid again, inasmuch as he designated at least an average hand by his two diamond response.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠ Q 4 ♥ Q 10 ♦ K 9 7 6 ♣ A J 9 7 2
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Pass	Pass	1 spade
2 clubs	Double	2 hearts	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—From your holding and the bidding, it is probable that dummy will come down with practically nothing in high cards, be short in clubs, and have two or three hearts. To eliminate club ruffs in dummy, you must attack with trumps, and the best time is right now. Lead a heart.

This holds for late Wednesday, too. After the rather foggy mental state of the early hours, the day picks up speed and can bring some little surprises and lifts with favorable social inclinations in the evening.

The Taureans born in the last week of April need to watch their personal relationships. Confusion and misunderstanding can result now with some nervous upsets in the latter part of the week.

Happy Birthday, Taurus! This cannot be called an easy or smooth year for Taureans, but if there is no reason why rewards cannot come your way in the late fall and early 1959. NOT SO DEEP

By FRANK WELLS

He Tours Forever But Baby-Sits Never

The federal Alcohol Tax Unit man was testing a tiny radio transmitter—the kind which can be carried in the pocket and has a hidden microphone, the whole thing completely concealed. (These here revenooers, now, they're getting mighty, mighty scientific!)

Anyway, he was testing it to see how it would work on city streets. He was walking up and down in front of a bank on Marietta street the other day, saying in a low voice: "One, two, three, four. . . . Testing. . . . Testing. . . . One, two, three, four. . . ."

Two other agents were parked in a car with the receiver for the set. They were several blocks away, but were receiving the "signal" loud and clear. They heard: "One, two, three, four. . . . Testing. . . . Testing. . . ." Then a different voice broke in with, "Say, mister, are you all right?"

'Just Gotta Keep Moving'

Bill McAllister, 23, has the worst case of traveler's itch in the world. He has no money, no home, no job, but has traveled 611,219 miles by hitch-hiking—the last segment being from Macon to Atlanta.

Bill showed up in the office of The Constitution, as do all such folks, with his scrapbook, as all such people have. He did have an interesting story.

Bill came from a broken home in Massachusetts. He was placed in an unhappy foster home in Maine, so when he was 12 years old he just lit out. Nobody cared enough to bring him back, so he just kept going. He has crossed the States, 14 times, and has hitch-hiked up the Alcan Highway to Alaska. He has papers to prove it.

Now Bill is no bum. He works where he goes. "I'll do anything but baby-sit," the good-looking, five-foot-four-inch traveler said. "I've washed windows, dishes, store-fronts and automobiles in every state in the Union."

Bill did a good job of work while in Atlanta. He decided to help out in the Cerebral Palsy School-Clinic drive. He bought one paper, sold it over and over until he had collected $17.10. He turned that in to one of the regular workers, who gave him another supply of papers—this time he didn't have to sell one and beg it back. He collected $5 more.

Never Rode in a Buggy

Bill said he never caught a ride in a buggy or a wagon, but did ride into one town on the back of a tractor. "I've hitched rides in planes up in Alaska. Once in Wyoming I even hitched a ride on a bus. I didn't want to get on when he stopped because I didn't have the money to pay for the ride, but it was snowing and the driver made me get on. The snow turned into a blizzard and I would have frozen if the driver hadn't made me ride."

Bill says he is going to write a book—in fact he already has part of it finished—telling of his adventures. He has confined his travels to this continent.

"I don't want to hitch-hike abroad unless I've got somebody sponsoring me," Bill said. "Being broke in a foreign country would be more than I could handle, I'm afraid."

This is Bill's second trip to Atlanta. He's not particularly sold on the South. "The people generally are friendly, but the police are sure quick to pick you up if you haven't any money. They haven't bothered me in Atlanta, but other places are pretty rough."

Bill has this word for drivers, and he's ridden with the best and worst of them: "Life is short enough. Don't hurry through it."

Happy hiking, Bill.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Every care is taken that this food comes to you fresh as the morning, untouched by human hands until you unwrap the sealed and secured package."—Advertisement.

They tell us life is easy now . . . compared with what it used to be . . . not many of us keep a cow . . . to give us cream and milk, when we . . . can tell the milkman what we need . . . and he will leave it at the door . . . in many ways we are agreed . . . that life is better than before.

Not many housewives rise at dawn . . . to fire up that old kitchen range . . . they turn the gas or current on . . . which is, indeed, a pleasant change . . . The bacon and the eggs are there . . . also the bread for breakfast toast . . . and with such help she can prepare . . . a meal in minutes, at the most.

Not so, the hardy pioneers . . . they milked their cows, they chopped their wood . . . they butchered their own hogs and steers . . . for life was hard, however good . . . The nearest store was miles away . . . and there was little on its shelves . . . and, as our grandpa used to say. . . "We simply had to feed ourselves."

I do not think that we shall find . . . nor shall we see such men again . . . but do you think they could unwind . . . a package wrapped in cellophane?*
